Mr. Pierson of Cook, offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

Resolved, That a committee of three (3) members be appointed by the presiding officer to call upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and request him to administer the oath of office to the members of the House of the Forty-sixth General Assembly, when ready to take the oath of office prescribed by the Constitution.

And the resolution was adopted.

The Chair thereupon appointed as such committee Messrs. Pierson, Liggett and Gorman.

Mr. Pierson from the committee heretofore appointed to wait upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and request him to administer the oath of office to the members of the House of Representatives, announced that Chief Justice James H. Cartwright of the Supreme Court was present and ready to perform the duty.

Thereupon the Secretary of State directed the Clerk of the House to again call the roll of members, for the purpose of administering the oath of office to the members present.

Whereupon the roll was called and the oath was administered by Mr. Chief Justice Cartwright of the Supreme Court to all those members of the House whose names are recorded as present on the following roll call.

Mr. Shanahan offered the following amendment and moved its adoption:

Resolved, by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, that the two Houses meet in joint session in the House of Representatives on Monday, the 18th day of January, A. D., 1909, at 12:00 o'clock Meridian, for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration of Governor, Lieutenant Governor and the other State officers elect of the State of Illinois.

Messrs. Fulton, Zinger, Bardill, Abrahams and McCollum.

Mr. Kleeman offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

The Speaker in the chair.

The Speaker thereupon announced that the hour had arrived for witnessing the inauguration of the Governor, and other State officers elect and inquired if the Senate were present.

Whereupon, Senator Hamilton, president pro tem., of the Senate, arose and stated that a quorum of the Senate was present for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration.

The Speaker of the House then announced that a quorum of the House was present.

Prayer was then offered by the Reverend Mr. Higley.

Mr. Fulton from the Committee on Notification of State Officers, reported that they had notified the State officers elect and the retiring State officers that the House and Senate were convened for the purpose of witnessing the inauguration of the Governor and other State officers elect and that they are present and ready to take the oath of office.

Mr. Kleeman from the committee heretofore appointed for the purpose of waiting upon the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and requesting his presence to administer the oath of office to the State officers elect, reported Chief Justice Cartwright present for that purpose, accompanied by the Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois.

Thereupon Chief Justice Cartwright of the Supreme Court of the State of Illinois administered the oath of office provided by section 25 of Article V of the Constitution of the State of Illinois separately to Charles S. Deneen, Governor; John G. Oglesby, Lieutenant-Governor; James A. Rose, Secretary of State; James S. McCullough, Auditor of Public Accounts; Andrew Russel, Treasurer, and William H. Stead, Attorney General.

The Speaker of the House then introduced the Governor, the Hon. Charles S. Deneen, who thereafter delivered his inaugural address as follows:

GOVERNOR'S BIENNIAL MESSAGE TO THE FORTY-SIXTH GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, January 18, 1909.

Gentlemen of the Forty-Sixth General Assembly:

In compliance with the Constitutional provision requiring the Governor, at the commencement of each session and at the close of his term of office, to give to the General Assembly information by message, of the condition of the State and to recommend such measures as he may deem expedient, I submit the following matters for your consideration:

DEEP WATERWAY.

The Forty-Fifth General Assembly (1905), enacted a statute providing for the appointment of an Internal Improvement Commission. The act imposed upon the commission the duty of investigating "the various problems associated with a projected deep waterway from Lake Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico and the reclamation of lands subject to overflow or inundation."

The law creating the commission also provided that a report of its investigations and conclusions should be submitted to the General Assembly. The report so submitted was a comprehensive showing of the present condition and future possibilities of development of Illinois waterways.

The subject to which the report chiefly devotes attention is the practicability of establishing water communication between the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico. This it demonstrates to be entirely feasible. It gives an outline of the work necessary to construct a waterway of depth and other dimensions suitable to the highest commercial uses.

The Federal rivers and harbors act of June 13, 1902, appropriated the sum of $200,000 "For making such surveys, examinations and investigations as may be required to determine the feasibility of and prepare and report plans and estimates of cost of a navigable waterway fourteen feet in depth from Lockport, Illinois, * * * * to St. Louis, Missouri."

The survey thus provided for, so far as it related to the Mississippi river, was conducted by the Mississippi River Commission, whilst that from Lockport to the mouth of the Illinois river was conducted by three United States Army engineers.

The reports of the Mississippi River Commission and of the United States board of engineers submitted to Congress in 1905, show the practicability of a fourteen-foot channel from Chicago to St. Louis, but do not limit the attainable depth to that figure. On this subject the report says:

"In a future not remote, larger volumes of water may be needed for sanitary purposes, and channels deeper than fourteen feet will then become practicable in the open alluvial section of the Illinois river."

The Federal reports are based upon the minimum flow of water called for by the Chicago sanitary district act, or 600,000 cubic feet per second, whilst the actual capacity of the Chicago sanitary district canal is forty per cent greater than that called for by the act, or 840,000 cubic feet per second. When, therefore, the requisite volume of water from Lake Michigan is available, under the terms of the Chicago sanitary district act, it will permit of a correspondingly greater depth in the proposed waterway between Chicago and St. Louis.

These matters will be found exhaustively discussed in the report of the Internal Improvement Commission transmitted by me to the Forty-fifth General Assembly April 10, 1907.

No argument is needed to demonstrate the commercial importance of a waterway between the Great Lakes and the Mississippi. It was recognized in the act creating the Sanitary District of Chicago, which provided that the Chicago drainage channel should also be a ship canal and should be subject to the control of the Federal Government for purposes of navigation "when-ever the general government shall improve the Desplaines and Illinois rivers for navigation" and has been alluded to in numerous enactments, Federal and State, and in historical documents from the period of discovery onward.

The feature of main interest to Illinois in the report of the Internal Improvement Commission is the discussion of the possibilities of water power development in the proposed extension of the waterway between Lockport and Utica. This power is estimated by the commission at approximately 140,000 gross electrical horse power. For the sake of conservatism, however, this was estimated, in its calculations showing the relation of revenue derivable from water power to the cost of waterway construction, at 100,000 electrical horse power. At the market price of $25.00 per horse power per annum, this would provide a net annual income to the State of from $2,500,000 to $2,750,000. As the total estimated cost of construction of this division of the waterway and the development of all water power possibilities incident thereto is $18,652,986, it is estimated by the Internal Improvement Commission that this revenue will repay the cost of waterway construction and water power development in from fourteen to seventeen years from the inception of the work. The work itself can be completed in from four to five years and it is believed a revenue from water power will be afforded at the end of the third year. When, therefore, the report of the Internal Improvement Commission made evident the fact that the water power could be made to dig the waterway, the Forty-fifth General Assembly submitted to the voters the constitutional amendment providing for the issuance of $20,000,000 in bonds, which was adopted at the last general election.

The vote on the amendment was 675,898 for and 193,296 against—a majority of 482,602, the largest ever recorded in favor of any proposition submitted to the voters of this State.

In this connection, attention is directed to the fact that the calculations of the Internal Improvement Commission with reference to revenue from water power sources were based upon the assumption that all water power to be developed would belong to the State and this assumption was made the basis of the discussion before the General Assembly of the proposed submission to the voters of the constitutional amendment referred to.

Shortly after the submission of the amendment however, it was found that a private corporation, the Economy Light & Power Company, had begun the construction of a dam at Dresden Heights, on the Desplaines river four hundred feet from the point where the Desplaines and Kankakee join to form the Illinois, for the utilization of the water power there to be developed, and had entered into contracts for the completion of the work before July 1, 1908, the date at which preventive legislation, in the absence of an emergency clause, would become effective.

The situation at Dresden Heights was called to the attention of the General Assembly by me in a special message dated November 6, 1907, and the attempt on the part of this private corporation to forestall State action was met by the adoption by the General Assembly on November 27, 1907, of a joint resolution denying the validity of its pretended rights and by the passage of an emergency measure directing the Governor and the Attorney General to take such other steps as might be necessary to remove obstructions from the Desplaines and Illinois rivers.

The Economy Light & Power Company based its claims upon certain contracts entered into by the Canal Commissioners of the State with Harold T. Griswold and his assigns. The company as assignee of Griswold, and in its own right, asserted the right to construct a dam across the Desplaines river at Dresden Heights with a view to the utilization of the water-power to be created at that point by the construction of the deep waterway and began to construct such dam. Apart from any question as to future water-power, this act was a breach of public right.

On December 12, notice to stop work was given to that company. On December 30, 1907, an information on behalf of the State was filed in the Circuit Court of Grundy county, where the proposed dam was to be located and where the work was begun; and a temporary injunction was issued by the court (Judge Samuel C. Stough presiding) stopping the work, which has remained discontinued. Evidence was thereupon taken. The hearing of the case began April 20, 1908, Hon. Julian W. Mack, of the Cook County Circuit Court temporarily sitting as Judge of the Grundy Circuit.

It was averred on behalf of the State that the contracts held by the defendant were void, for several reasons:

That they were beyond the power of the Canal Commissioners to grant;

That they were against the laws of the State, in granting rights in perpetuity in some of the canal property, and for terms of more than 20 years in other of the canal property;

That they were in substance contracts leasing water-power and lands and lots connected therewith, which were the property of the canal, and were in violation of the statute requiring public advertisement and letting to the highest bidder and limiting such contracts to 20 year terms;

That these contracts were so framed as illegally to assume to confer authority to dam the Desplaines river at its mouth and perpetually to maintain a dam across it, and to permit the dam to be attached to—and perpetually maintained attached to—the tow-path bank, and to permit the 90 foot reserve strip of canal land bordering the canal and the other canal lands bordering the river to be perpetually flooded for several miles up stream from the proposed dam;

That they were so framed as to permit the tow-path bank of the Illinois and Michigan Canal to be used as a retaining wall and part of the company's dam, and a line of power-poles and wires 25 miles long to be maintained on the tow-path, and the canal itself to be partially filled in at this place;

That the contracts illegally assumed to lease portions of the old lateral canal known as the "Kankakee Feeder," which formerly fed the waters of the Kankakee river into the Illinois and Michigan canal, and authorized the company to convert it into a feeder of its water-power pool (and so appropriate the waters of the Kankakee river also), and to excavate and remove portions of the feeder and the piers of the State aqueduct, which formerly conveyed the feeder over the river, and use these materials upon the works of the company, and to turn back from the Desplaines river the tributary stream known as the Kankakee cut-off, and make it run backward into the Kankakee river as an outlet for high waters from the water-power pool.

That the contracts further operated to encumber certain riparian lands of the State; that these lands at first had been advertised for sale and then withdrawn from sale and then encumbered by these contracts without notice and then re-advertised for sale, subject to the encumbrance, in such a way that no one but the company or person holding the contracts would bid, and were sold illegally to the holder of the contracts.

The State further claimed that by virtue of the canal statute of Feb. 26, 1839, which provided that:

"Land situated upon streams which had been meandered by the surveys of public lands by the United States shall be considered as bounded by the lines of those surveys and not by the stream;"

the bed of the stream at the site of the proposed dam remained the property of the State.

The State further maintained that the Desplaines river at the place in question and above was a navigable stream and that the erection of the dam would interfere with the public right in the stream, obstruct its use, and constitute a nuisance.

The company denied the contentions of the State, insisted that the contracts by the Canal Commissioners were valid; that the river was not navigable, and that it had the right to build the proposed dam and maintain the works so authorized.

June 27, 1908, the hearing was concluded and a decree was entered dismissing the information of the State without prejudice to the right of the State to claim in any future proceedings that the provisions of the lease of Griswold of September 2, 1904, relating to the making of a renewal at the expiration of the term of said lease, are void and of no effect.

This decree was accompanied by an opinion in which the court held that the perpetual features of the contracts were void and limited the company's rights thereunder to a term of 20 years from September 2, 1904.

The State carried the case by appeal to the Supreme Court of the State, where it is now pending. Notwithstanding the dissolution of the temporary injunction sued out by the State, work upon the company's dam has not since been renewed.

The adoption of the constitutional amendment brings before the General Assembly at its present session the consideration of plans for carrying on the constructive work involved in this great public undertaking, and a bill, prepared at the instance of the Internal Improvement Commission, providing for the creation of a commission to be placed in charge of this work, will be submitted for your consideration.

It is proposed to construct a navigable channel, fourteen feet in depth through earth cuttings, which, as has been stated, is sufficient to accommodate the present volume of water, but to construct the locks with 24 feet depth over the miter sills and rock divisions of the route at a depth of twenty feet, so as to meet the largest future demands of deep draft navigation and to accommodate the larger volume of water which will be ultimately available.

As a navigable waterway, the completed channel will be under Federal control for navigation purposes, and it is hoped that the State may be able to secure Federal aid in the construction of locks, thus decreasing materially the construction cost to the State.

Federal action, if taken at the present session, must be taken before the fourth of March, next. Since it is improbable that the Illinois General Assembly will be prepared to act on so important a matter at an earlier date, no delay is likely to result from awaiting such action as may be taken in this matter by the Federal government at the present session of Congress.

I am advised by the Internal Improvement Commission that this work should be so planned and prosecuted as to insure the building of the waterway and water power out of the proceeds of the State bond issue, and the building of the locks as far as that money will suffice for their construction.

This work I am informed by the commission can proceed in advance of the building of the locks, the sites for which can be shut off from the channel and water power construction by temporary dams of timber or other suitable construction. By pursuing this method the water power and channel construction need not wait upon the building of the locks.

In my judgment, it is of great importance, however, that the State take definite action at the present session of the General Assembly. Throughout the United States public interest has been aroused and attention is at present directed to the improvement of the navigable waterways of the country, and numerous waterway associations have been formed with a view to promoting State and Federal activity in carrying forward the work of construction and development. The attitude of the representatives of the Federal Government is now more friendly to a broad policy of waterway development than ever before and should Illinois show a disposition to enter vigorously upon the work of waterway construction, it cannot but affect favorably the Federal situation.

The decisive endorsement given to this undertaking by the people furnishes one of the strongest reasons for prompt action by the General Assembly. This is also prompted by other considerations. If, for any reason, the sole ownership of the water power to be developed, which has been assumed to vest in the State, should be questioned, it is of the greatest importance that the State should avail itself of the very earliest opportunity to invest itself with the title thereto by such prompt legislative and legal action as may be necessary to effect that end.

Aside from the water power, the commercial advantages which are to accrue to our State from such a policy cannot be over-estimated. They afford in themselves ample reason for the prompt consideration of this subject by your Honorable Body.

The main line of development for the domestic waterways of the United States is the line which unites the Great Lakes to their eastern and southern outlets, through the Mississippi to the Gulf of Mexico and through the St. Lawrence river to the Gulf of St. Lawrence and the Atlantic Ocean. Illinois occupies a most favorable position on this great trunk line of the waterway and its development in response to the demands of domestic commerce will favor the industries of no State more than those of Illinois.

As pointed out in the report of the Internal Improvement Commission, our position with reference to the great subsidiary branches of this waterway is equally advantageous. All the waters which drain the western slopes of the Alleghenies, from northern Alabama and Georgia to Western New York, come to our shores through the Tennessee and Cumberland and Ohio, with their many navigable tributaries. The Missouri, draining the eastern slopes of the Rocky Mountains and the great plains from Kansas to the Canadian northwest; the Winnipeg basin in the far north, drained southward through the Minnesota and Upper Mississippi, and all possible water routes between the valleys of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi trail our borders. On half the waters of the United States gravitate to the shores of Illinois and our State is the natural focus of a waterway system continental in its scope.

It seems furthermore to be now an established fact that the Canadian government is seriously considering the construction of the Georgian Bay canal which will give to Canada a deep waterway from the lakes to the Atlantic seaboard, affording to our northern neighbor and its mother country a great advantage over the United States in the matter of commerce between the Atlantic and the inland lakes. There should be a speedy beginning on the part of the United States and the states interested in the construction of the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Waterway, in order that this country may stand upon an equality in all commercial advantages with Canada and Great Britain.

Our State, therefore, should take a leading part in the present movement for waterway development and set an example of prompt and vigorous action which will command the attention and elicit the coöperation of the other states and the national government.

It will be necessary to conduct the waterway construction work with scrupulous economy in order to complete it within the amount made available by the bond issue authorized by the people. The magnitude of the undertaking and its great cost emphasize the necessity for its prompt execution. The item of interest alone upon the bonds when issued will amount at 3 per cent to $600,000, or at 4 per cent to $800,000 per annum. Every year's delay after the issuance of the bonds, therefore, means the imposition upon the tax-payers of the State of an additional burden of taxation amounting to 12 to 16 per cent of the present taxation for State purposes.

Other and higher considerations urge the completion of the work without unnecessary delay. The benefits to follow the building of this great waterway and the development of water-power incident to its construction are of such a momentous character that the interests of the people demand the laying aside of all differences, bias or prejudice, on the part of the members of the General Assembly, in an effort to frame a law under which the work can proceed with celerity, while affording the amplest guaranty of the honest and efficient conduct of the enterprise.

Only through the enactment of such a law can we meet the high expectations of the people or carry to successful and speedy completion this great enterprise. The accomplishment of this work will be a monument to our State and furnish a worthy example for other states to emulate in meeting the demands imposed upon them in this great era of waterway development.

STATE CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

With the beginning of the present State administration (1905-9), a comprehensive policy was adopted for the improvement of the State charitable service. The scheme of improvement included:

1. The enactment of a civil service law, applicable to the State charitable institutions.

2. The reorganization of the medical, nursing, attendance and teaching service therein.

3. The physical rehabilitation of buildings and equipment, including the construction of new buildings at existing institutions and the creating and construction of new institutions as required; and

4. The inauguration of modern, economical methods of purchase and of general business administration.

CIVIL SERVICE.

The civil service law passed by the Forty-fourth General Assembly became effective November 1, 1905. From that date to December 1, 1908, the Civil Service Commission received 10,684 applications. Of those making application, 8,292 were notified to appear for examination. One thousand seven hundred twenty-seven applications were withdrawn or rejected for cause, the remainder being still on file in the office of the Civil Service Commission awaiting future notification of examinations. One thousand two hundred nine examinations were held in 43 different cities. In those tests, 4,965 applicants were examined and 3,394 passed. There have been 4,550 appointments under the law. Because of the change in the method of appointment, it was necessary at first to make a number of temporary appointments from applications, as is provided for under the law. Many of these resigned before they could be examined, particularly attendants, domestics and laborers.

Since November 1, 1905, there have been 918 discharges for cause, on written statements specifying the charges made.

The Forty-fifth General Assembly amended the law giving the Civil Service Commission the right to investigate removals and making it mandatory to order an investigation when the commission was satisfied an injustice had been done the employé.

During the year 1908, 279 discharges occurred and four employés were ordered reinstated after an investigation by the commission.

The most noticeable improvements in the service have taken place in the medical, engineering and nursing branches. Young men have been appointed in the medical service who have had practical experience as internes in the leading hospitals of the State.

When the law became effective in 1905, there was one chief nurse and fourteen graduate nurses in the State charitable institutions. On December 1, 1908, there were seven chief nurses and twenty-nine graduate nurses in the different institutions. In 1905, there was one graduate nurse in the hospitals for the insane. On December 31, 1908, there were five chief nurses and ten graduate nurses in the hospitals for the insane and the Asylum for Feeble Minded Children. The appointment of these nurses has benefited the attending service materially, as the chief nurses act as instructors to the attendants in the training schools for nurses and attendants, being assisted by the graduate nurses. For the first time, the State's charges have had trained nurses in the various hospitals.

In the engineering service, competent chief engineers and assistants have been placed in charge of the State's plants.

Specially equipped instructors and teachers have been appointed in the schools, with the view of teaching the feeble minded and the insane some useful and diverting occupation.

While the commission found it difficult at first to obtain satisfactory applicants for the service, the advantages of training in nursing and attendance now afforded in the State institutions has attracted a larger number and the commission is now in a position to fill all demands upon it.

The commission has been unable to obtain competent teachers of the deaf in Illinois. The commission has tried for three years to fill the positions at the School for the Deaf with competent teachers who reside in this State. There is no training school for teachers of the deaf in this State that will supply sufficient teachers for the Illinois School for the Deaf; consequently these positions must be filled by non-residents. The commission believes it should be given authority to open important technical positions at its discretion to persons who are not residents of Illinois.

Believing that Civil Service has demonstrated its value to the public service in the institutions, I recommend its extension to other branches of the service and to that end I commend to your careful consideration the recommendations of the State Civil Service Commission, as set forth in its report.

MEDICAL, NURSING AND ATTENDANCE SERVICE.

For the reorganization of the medical service, a Psychopathic Institute has been established at Kankakee. This institute affords to the physicians in the State hospitals in the insane group thorough instruction in the nature, diagnosis and treatment of nervous and mental disorders, and scientific research into their causes and prevention. The institute has been established at a cost of $25,000 for installation and maintenance for two years. It has the best laboratory equipment the markets of the world afford. Attendance of from six weeks to three months per annum is compulsory upon physicians in the service of State hospitals for the insane and of the institution for the feeble-minded. Today, the entire medical service is administered by a uniform system which seeks the greatest efficiency in each institution. There is no like system in operation anywhere that offers superior advantages.

For the education of the nurses and attendants who come into most intimate contact with the patients, compulsory courses of instruction have been provided in training schools for nurses and attendants which are now in operation in the hospitals for the insane and the institution for the feeble minded. Nurses from the training schools of general hospitals have assisted our institution officials in inaugurating the new system and a movement is already well under way to establish reciprocity between our hospitals for the insane and general hospitals, so that, by an interchange of nurses, the wards of the State will receive the best possible care and the public outside State institutions will have a more competent nursing service than would be possible in any other way. Women nurses are superseding men wherever feasible.

In the matter of attendance upon the chronic insane and the duller feeble-minded, the State is indebted to the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy for the free training in handicraft given by it last summer to selected attendants from our hospitals for the insane and our institution for the feeble-minded.

Two agencies of great efficiency which have been introduced into the insane hospital service, are the water treatment of the insane and industrial re-education. The water treatment reduces to a minimum chemical and mechanical restraint and is an efficient curative process in many forms of acute insanity and other forms of physical disease. Industrial re-education, now well advanced, provides employment for hitherto idle insane patients at light manual work which diverts their minds from hallucinations and delusions. There is some economy in such employment, but the chief reason for the employment of patients is its medical value.

Psychopathic hospitals have been established at four of the seven hospitals for the insane, namely those at Kankakee, Watertown, Bartonville and Anna, in new buildings erected on modern lines and providing curative treatment. At the fifth hospital (Elgin) the appropriation was too small to complete the building, but psychopathic work is done on existing wards pending the receipt of additional funds. At the sixth hospital (Jacksonville), psychopathic work is done on the wards. At the seventh (Criminal Insane) like work is done on the wards, as a new institution is to be erected.

The value of this hospital service lies in the fact that in insanity, as in other forms of disease, cures are most frequent in the early stages. In the psychopathic hospitals immediate treatment is given to each individual case as soon after admission as observation and other methods determine the nature of the particular form of insanity and what the treatment should be.

I am informed that from five to seven per cent of admissions to hospitals for the insane recovered under the old system, many curable cases lapsing into chronic insanity. Under the new hospital system, according to eminent medical authority, from forty to seventy per cent of acute curable cases may be cured.

PHYSICAL REHABILITATION AND NEW BUILDINGS.

Surveys made by the State Architect and a consulting engineer showed the necessity for a physical overhauling of the older institutions and for the erection of new buildings to increase capacity and for other purposes. The report of the State Architect and the engineer, covering all institutions, indicated the need of an expenditure of $2,669,961, to place existing buildings and equipment on a satisfactory basis. In view of the large sum found to be necessary to complete this work, a conference of the State Board of Charities, the superintendents of the various State charitable institutions and the Governor was held to eliminate therefrom all items of expenditure not immediately required to procure and maintain safe, sanitary and healthful conditions in the institutions and to absorb into customary appropriations all such items as could be so recommended. The elimination left as urgently needed for extraordinary purposes the sum of $637,380, which was recommended to the Forty-fifth General Assembly as extraordinary appropriations necessary to the comprehensive scheme of rehabilitation proposed. The Forty-fifth General Assembly appropriated as extraordinary funds $331,916. Much of the work recommended by the State Architect and much even of that urged as indispensable to the maintenance of safe, sanitary and healthful conditions in these institutions remains to be done.

The reports of the various institutions show in detail the great extent to which the physical condition of the buildings and their equipment have been improved with the funds available. These details are too extensive to be recited here. They are set forth in the reports referred to in which you will find a vast amount of information which may aid you in your discussion of this subject.

NEW FORM OF PUBLIC CHARITY ADMINISTRATION.

In supplying the needs of the charitable institutions, those changes were first effected which brought the quickest improvement of conditions surrounding the wards of the State. The original program, however, covered every branch of the service, and included the consideration of the need of a coördinated business administration, and in October, 1907, the State Board of Charities authorized its president to appoint a committee of business and professional men to advise it in this important matter. In their twentieth biennial report will be found recommendations embodying the suggestions of this committee.

Expert opinions were collected from twenty-five sources and the conclusions reached have been passed upon and amended by a committee of citizens, including eminent men in business, finance, medicine, law and the church. The final recommendations, briefly stated, include:

1. A central system of administration by a paid board of three men covering the charitable, penal, reformatory and correctional State institutions.

2. A central system of visitation, inspection, investigation and recommendation, maintained by the State Board of Charities (non-salaried) increased from five to seven members, with its powers of visitation, inspection, investigation and recommendation extended to the two prisons and the reformatory, its present auditing service transferred to the State Auditor and its few executive and administrative powers transferred to the new administrative board.

The purpose of the proposed administrative and inspection system, is:

To provide humane and scientific treatment and care and the highest attainable degree of individual development for the dependent wards of the State.

To provide for delinquents and prisoners such wise conditions of modern reformatory education and training as will restore the largest proportion of them to useful citizenship.

To promote the study of the causes of dependency and delinquency, or mental, moral and physical defects, with a view to cure and ultimate prevention; and

To secure the highest attainable degree of economy in the business administration of the institutions consistent with the objects above enumerated.

The Board of Charities and eminent persons associated with the board have given this subject careful study and in reaching their conclusions have investigated the best methods of charity administration in this country and in Europe and the recommendations submitted are worthy of the earnest consideration of the General Assembly.

FUTURE NEEDS OF THE INSANE.

Insanity presents the most serious numerical problem confronted by the State in the care of its wards. At the close of the fiscal year, 1908, the wards of the State, in State as distinguished from county institutions, numbered 17,921. Of these 9,985 or 56 per cent were insane wards.

From 1878 to 1908 the insane population in Illinois State and county institutions increased from 2,576 to 12,084, or an increase of 369 per cent. During the same period, the population of the State increased from 2,968,200 to 5,617,700, an increase of 89 per cent. At first glance, this is an appalling comparison. It indicates that insanity is increasing at an alarmingly greater rate than is the population. I am informed that, in all probability insanity is increasing, not only in Illinois but throughout the United States, at a greater rate than the population, but that the great disparity in the rates of increase for Illinois exists because in recent years, the people of the State are placing more and more confidence in our public institutions and are committing to, and, when able, are paying for the care of their insane in State hospitals, instead of sending them to private institutions or keeping them in homes.

The growth of insane population in public institutions places two great responsibilities upon the State:

First—To provide curative treatment in State hospitals for all the insane in public institutions, and,

Second—To address itself to energetic measures for prevention.

Our State is making an earnest effort to meet the first of these responsibilities. At the end of the fiscal year 1904, there were 1,139 insane in county almshouses. At the end of the fiscal year 1908, there were 365 insane in county almshouses; a reduction during the four years of 774. These figures do not include Cook county, which has a hospital for the insane. At the end of the fiscal year 1908, forty-six of the ninety-eight counties, outside of Cook county, having almshouses, had been relieved entirely of their insane.

The appropriations requested for new buildings at State hospitals contemplate sufficient room to clear all almshouses outside of Cook County of their insane, and to care for the normal net increase of cases directly committed, numbering 317 per annum.

THE PROGRESS MADE BY ILLINOIS.

In seeking to secure the most efficient treatment and care of the public insane, Illinois proceeded first to take over acute cases into State hospitals, when necessary leaving so-called incurable cases in county almshouses. Next it created the Illinois Asylum for the Incurable Insane at South Bartonville and moved chronic insane from State hospitals and from county almshouses into that institution, so far as its capacity would permit. The last General Assembly enacted measures which place this part of the insane service on the highest plane yet attained. These measures provided for the curative treatment of all the public insane in the State in State hospitals and made the Bartonville Asylum a district hospital to receive all forms of insane cases, changing its name from "Illinois Asylum for Incurable Insane" to "Illinois General Hospital for the Insane."

In working out the problem of the public care of the insane, it is apparent that the time has come for the State to plan for a new hospital. I recommend that $100,000 be appropriated by your Honorable Body to locate and purchase a site of about 1,000 acres and to prepare plans and specifications for buildings.

AT LEAST FOUR YEARS WORK REMAINS.

There is not space in this message to enumerate at length the needs of the feeble-minded, the wards in our institutions for the blind, for our delinquent boys and girls or our deaf.

Nor am I able to call the attention of the General Assembly to the various needs of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Quincy, the Soldiers' Widows' Home at Wilmington, or the Soldiers' Orphans' Home at Normal. All will be found set forth in the reports of the institutions referred to, to which I direct your attention. I desire, however, to call your attention to the request of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Quincy for an appropriation for the erection of an electric light plant. I am informed that there is very great need of this, as, with the present lighting facilities, the veterans are frequently unable to read after nightfall.

The appropriation for an electric light plant has been twice defeated in the appropriation committees of the General Assembly. The erection of an electric light plant by the State for this institution would be economical and would contribute to the comfort of the veterans.

At a conference at Springfield on December 22, last, attended by the State Board of Charities, the superintendents and trustees of the several institutions and myself, all items needed to complete the work of regenerating our public charity equipment and service were discussed. The conference deemed it impracticable for the State to attempt to do the remaining work in two years. Therefore an agreement was reached to endeavor to complete the program during the next four years, with the assistance of two General Assemblies.

APPROPRIATIONS ASKED FOR NEXT TWO YEARS.

The conference agreed upon the items which, in the judgment of those attending the meeting, were essential to proper progress during the next two years. The Board of Charities, acting as a clearing house for the institutions, will provide your Honorable Body with the several items making up the totals asked for each institution.

A growing State such as ours must expect to increase its expenses from year to year, as its population and public activities and obligations expand. The average daily population of our State charitable institutions in 1905 was 12,695. For the fiscal year 1908 the average population was 14,172; an increase of 1,477 or 11.63 per cent over that of 1905. The average per capita cost for maintenance in the State charitable institutions for the year ending June 30, 1908, was $165.96 net. To provide for this increase of 1,477 at a per capita cost of $165.96 for maintenance requires an expenditure of $245,113 per annum. To provide for the housing of this increase at a per capita cost of $500.00 per bed, an expenditure of $738,500 is necessary. A total increase of $983,613 is required to provide new buildings and maintenance for one year for the actual increase of population noted.

Because of the criticism to which the administration of the State charitable institutions has been subjected and the unfounded aspersions which have been cast upon the service, I have been led to deal with this subject at greater length than I would otherwise have done. I venture to assert that no public charitable institutions in this country, or elsewhere, have made greater progress during the past four years than that which has been witnessed in those of our own State, in the betterment of their equipment, the reorganization of their service and in the improved care bestowed by them upon the unfortunate wards of the State.

INQUIRY INTO THE CONDITION OF THE BLIND.

I direct your attention to the report of the commission appointed by the State Board of Charities on July 16, 1908, to make inquiry into the condition of the blind. From statistics gathered, the report of the commission shows that blindness is on the increase in Illinois at a greater rate than the population of the State because of inadequate laws, and that from forty to forty-five per cent of all cases of blindness are preventable. The largest amount of blindness comes from what is known as "blindness of new born," and this disease is usually preventable.

It is recommended in the report of the commission:

First—That a census of the blind in Illinois be taken and that steps be taken to improve their condition.

Second—That more effective laws be enacted for the prevention of blindness; and Third—That the adult blind be removed from the School for the Blind at Jacksonville to the Industrial Home for the Blind at Chicago; that the aged and infirm blind be cared for at the Chicago home, and that such increase in equipment and facilities of the Chicago institution be provided as is necessary to accomplish this purpose and to aid blind persons to become wholly or partially self-supporting.

I call your attention to the report of this commission and solicit for its recommendations the careful consideration of your Honorable Body.

EPILEPTIC COLONY.

The Forty-first General Assembly created the Illinois State Colony for Epileptics in 1899. Succeeding Legislatures have not appropriated funds to establish this institution. Experts state that epilepsy is nearly as widespread as insanity. The obligation of the State to assume the care in special institutions of its unfortunate people suffering from this disease has been recognized and acted upon by Ohio, New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Kansas, Texas, Indiana and Missouri. Two other states, Virginia and North Carolina, have taken steps to provide similar institutions.

The most recent census of the State Board of Charities, (November, 1908) shows that there are 913 epileptics in the State charitable institutions. The census of epileptics in the almshouses, taken during the summer of 1908, shows the presence of 129. In all there are 1,042 epileptics in our public institutions. Of this number, 677 are in hospitals for the insane, all of them a source of injury to the insane patients and eleven of them not insane at all but kept among the insane because there is no other place for them. Appeals for State care for epileptics are constant.

The establishment of a new institution for improvable epileptics and the erection of buildings at two of the existing hospitals for the insane for insane epileptics is recommended. The idea is to remove epileptics from other hospitals for the insane to the two having epileptic colonies.

I approve this plan and commend the consideration of it to your Honorable Body.

TUBERCULOSIS.

I call your attention to the increase of tuberculosis. This dread disease is reaping a harvest of ten thousand lives annually in Illinois. The battle to wipe it out is worldwide. I recommend to the Forty-fifth General Assembly the creation of a State Sanatorium for Consumptives.

The General Assembly enacted a law permitting cities and villages to create local sanatoria and authorizing them to make the necessary tax levy therefor. Experts differ as to the more efficient method of dealing with this disease, whether by a State sanatorium or by local sanatoria, or by both.

The present law did not go into effect until last July. In the short interval elapsing since that time, adequate opportunity has not been afforded to cities and villages to establish local sanatoria under the law. While the State Board of Health will again strongly recommend the establishment of a State Sanatorium for Consumptives, it may be that a longer time is necessary to afford a fair test of the measure creating local sanatoria, a view which is entertained by the State Board of Charities.

Probable balance unappropriated revenue July 1, 1909.....		$4,258,076 57

The estimate of receipts on account of State taxes for the year 1908 is placed by the Auditor of Public Accounts at $4,980,000. This is the estimated net amount that will probably be collected for that year. It is improbable that the entire amount will be paid into the State treasury on or before July 1, as final settlements of many of the collectors will not be made until after that date.

As appears from the foregoing statement, the probable balance of unappropriated revenue in the State treasury on July 1, 1909, will be $4,258,076.57. The deduction of $3,000,000, which is deemed by the State Auditor a reasonable working balance, leaves $1,258,076.57 available to meet appropriations to be made by the present General Assembly. The receipts from miscellaneous sources for the two years beginning July 1, 1909, are estimated by the Auditor of Public Accounts at $5,500,000, making a total of $6,758,076.57, derivable from sources other than taxation. As the amount of revenue which can be raised at the present rate of taxation upon the present property valuation of the State is, approximately, $12,500,000, it is apparent that if the appropriations made by the present General Assembly shall exceed $19,000,000, either the assessed valuation of property or the rate of taxation will have to be increased for the next biennial period over those obtaining for the past four years.

INTEREST ON PUBLIC FUNDS.

The law providing for the payment of interest on the public funds into the State treasury, enacted at the last session of the General Assembly and approved March 7th, went into effect on July 1, 1908. The retiring State Treasurer, Hon. John F. Smulski, has paid the interest on public funds received by him as State Treasurer into the State treasury. The amount of interest so turned into the State treasury up to September 30, 1908, the end of the last quarterly period, was $153,158.55. It is estimated that by the close of the term of office of the retiring State Treasurer this amount will be brought up to $180,000.

Prior to January 1, 1905, the amount of interest received on balances to the credit of other State departments and institutions was $614.38. With the beginning of my administration, the policy was adopted of requiring State departments and institutions to collect interest on funds deposited to their credit in various banks. Since the adoption of this policy, interest has been received from this source amounting approximately to $66,720.

REVENUE COMMISSION.

The admitted inequalities of the present State revenue system led to the recommendation in my biennial message of 1907 of the appointment of a Revenue Commission. In the session following, a measure providing for the appointment of such a commission was enacted. Unfortunately the provisions of the bill requiring the appointment upon the commission of members of the General Assembly were found to be unconstitutional and, solely upon this ground, it became necessary to veto the measure.

Under the defective measure passed by the General Assembly, it was provided that the work of the proposed Revenue Commission should be: An investigation of the system of assessments and taxation for State and local purposes; a complete compilation of laws now in force in Illinois bearing upon the subject of taxation; the hearing of complaints and obtaining information showing the inequalities of the present system; an inquiry into systems of taxation in other states; and a report to the Governor with drafts of bills embodying the recommendations of the commission, to be transmitted by the Governor to the General Assembly.

I am thoroughly convinced of the necessity for revenue revision and again urge upon the General Assembly the consideration of the question of appointing a Revenue Commission with duties similar to those embodied in the measure referred to.

The cause of present inequalities in our revenue system is due, to some extent, to conditions in this State which have outgrown the present law. To meet these conditions, many of the provisions of the present revenue act have been amended from time to time with the result of introducing conflict into its provisions, making many sections of the law susceptible of misconstruction by assessing officers.

In addition to this, since the original law was passed, several of its sections have been held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court while others have been declared so by the Attorney General.

For these reasons, I think the entire law should be revised.

An additional reason for revision is that, in recent years, new interests have developed in the State that have brought into existence a large class of property which can hardly be reached for purposes of taxation under the present revenue laws. On this account, the revision of the laws, should any be made, should include provisions to cover this defect.

It is furthermore evident that measures must be adopted whereby the State revenues may be increased to meet the growing demands for State expenditures.

I submit for the consideration of the General Assembly the question of the adoption of the policy of segregating State from local taxes by providing for a system of State licenses and for the taxation of corporate capital and earnings to provide a revenue for the support of the State government.

Policies similar to this have been adopted by New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, Michigan, Wisconsin, California and Washington. The financial report of the State of New York, in which the policy of segregating State from local taxes has been most completely carried out, shows that the system has yielded sufficient revenue to maintain the State government without resorting to the levying of a direct tax on the property of the State for that purpose.

PRIMARY ELECTIONS.

The first practical test of the present primary election law was made at the primaries held on August 8th, last. As was anticipated, the test disclosed certain defects in the law. Chief among these defects, was the opportunity afforded members of one party to vote at the primary elections, and thus in a measure to control the nominations of another.

No defect more grave than this could be found under a system of party government and the law should be amended so as to preserve to members of each party the exclusive right to select their party candidates. The baneful consequences following a violation of this obvious principle of party government reach far beyond party organizations. They affect the principle of majority rule. Everybody is aware of the effect produced by the nomination of weak or unworthy candidates in the resulting apathy of party voters. The foisting of such candidates upon a majority party through the participation of members of a minority party in its primary elections, must frequently result in the election of candidates representing the minority, not the majority, of the voters. If, on the other hand, candidates thus nominated by the aid of members of the minority party with a view to their subsequent defeat, be elected, the public service suffers.

So long as such a practice is allowed to continue, political organizations will be the easy prey of combinations of the worst elements of all parties, for it plays directly into the hands of the men who traffic in political offices and in legislation and administration for other than the public benefit. Any amendment to the present law which will curtail or destroy such evils, cannot fail to be a move in the right direction. In my judgment, there is no way to escape the conclusion that, so long as ours remains a government by party, the autonomy of the party must be preserved and the participation of members of one party in the selection of the candidates of another must be prohibited.

To this end, provisions permitting candidates before the primaries to have watchers at the polling places and prohibiting members of one party from voting at the primaries of another should prove effectual. I recommend the enactment of a corrupt practices act, prohibiting unlawful practices and undue expenditure of money in the conduct of primary elections.

With the correction of the defects made manifest in the last primary campaign, our present nominating system will be a great improvement over the old system, which, in any event, has been repudiated by popular vote. I therefore urge upon the General Assembly, the early consideration of amendments to the present primary election law.

RAILROAD AND WAREHOUSE COMMISSION.

The Railroad and Warehouse Commission has become one of the most important departments of the State government. It was originally created by statute enacted in 1871. There were then only nineteen railroad companies reporting to the commission with a total mileage of single track main line of 3730 3-8 and a total of all description of tracks of 5,066 $\frac{1}{2}$ miles. For the year ending June 30, 1908, 150 steam railroad companies and 51 electric interurban railroad companies reported with an aggregate single track mileage (main line and branches) of 13,332.24, and a total of all description of tracks of 23,045.57 miles.

The total capital represented by the nineteen railroad companies reporting to the commission in the year 1871 was $307,521,422.00. The total capital represented by the 192 railroad companies reporting to the commission last year was $5,574,720,000.00.

In 1889 the commission was given partial jurisdiction over the crossings of one road by another, but only when objection was made by either party interested. This jurisdiction was further extended in 1907 to include all crossings and conditions. Under both these statutes the commission has adopted a uniform policy of separation of grades, wherever the same is practicable and feasible. This policy was adopted to protect the lives and property of the people.

In the year 1885 the commission was directed by statute to make "a schedule of reasonable maximum rates of charge for the transportation of passengers, and freights and cars" for each of the railroads operating in the State and from time to time, as often as circumstances might require, to change and revise the same. In pursuance of this requirement the commission has held many meetings to act on petitions for changes in the schedule made by both shippers and railroads, and has issued ten supplements containing such changes as were authorized after exhaustive hearings, at which all parties interested were given opportunity to present their arguments.

On December 8, 1906, the Illinois Central Railroad Company filed a petition for a modification of Rule 23 of the Commissioners' Classification and schedules of rates, relating to switching charges, which action was later followed by other railroads. Copies of this petition and notice of hearing were served on all the Shippers' Associations and Traffic Bureaus in the State, who joined issue with the railroad companies. Extended hearings were had nearly every month during the two years since the date of filing and the railroad companies and shippers were represented by the best legal talent in the State. A mass of testimony was presented, both oral and documentary, which developed the existence of conditions, more especially in what is known as the Chicago switching district, which were inequitable.

On September 16, 1908, an order was entered of record by the commission establishing a boundary for the Chicago switching district and defining different switching services and making what the commission considered a reasonable maximum rate for each class of service. This order was to be effective October 1, 1908, but at the solicitation of the railroad companies the time was extended to November 1, 1908. On October 30, 1908, several bills for an injunction were presented to the U. S. Circuit Court at Chicago by a number of railroads doing business in the State, and an order entered by the court restraining the commission from enforcing its order as to such railroads until the case could be heard before the court. In this proceeding will probably be tested the authority and jurisdiction of the commission.

The commission has received complaints as to exorbitant charges made by the express companies operating over the railroads of our State, in some cases equalling the value of the property, but as the statute requiring the commission to make a schedule of reasonable maximum rates does not specifically name express companies as coming within its purview, the commission has not exercised that authority. If it be thought proper to place express companies under the jurisdiction of the commission its authority should be made perfectly clear by appropriate action by the General Assembly.

The first Board of Railroad Commissioners (1871) in making report to the Governor made special mention of the necessity and desirability of the control of stock and bond issues by the commission, and after explaining at some length the conditions as they believed them to exist at that time they used the following language:

"These additional issues of stock or 'stock dividends' as they are called, are made upon the pretext usually that they 'represent' earnings of the road which have been capitalized in improving its condition and enlarging its capacity for business. The truth is that in the cases alluded to, the earnings have been capitalized years before they were made."

They close their statement by adding:

"Thus it will be seen that the fictitious capital and not the real money employed in the construction of the roads, is mainly benefited by a practice of the theory of capitalizing earnings."

"The commissioners are not prepared to recommend a remedy for these alarming evils, but have been impelled to the foregoing earnest suggestions as to the actual workings of railroad construction and transportation in their bearings upon the business and prosperity of the people of the State, by the vital importance of early and effective action by the Legislature."

That these conditions are no less true today than they were when the above report was written thirty-seven years ago is abundantly proven by the case of one of our railroads, whose indebtedness a few years ago was approximately $80,000.00 per mile of road and the same mileage is now carrying an indebtedness of nearly $124,000.00 per mile.

In my judgment a statute should be enacted specifically providing that interurban railroads are to be considered railroads within the meaning of the statute, and that all laws applicable to railroads shall be applicable to interurban roads: (so-called) whether operated by steam or any other motive power.

The Railroad and Warehouse Commission should be given power to prescribe by rules and regulations the method of installing telegraph and telephone wires, and more especially trolley wires, and the conditions of their crossing over each other and over the railroad tracks. The high voltage carried by some of these wires is a constant menace to life if not properly protected. The supervision ought also to be extended to wires carrying power for commercial purposes.

The commission should be given power to compel railroad companies to construct and maintain physical connections with each other at crossings and junctions for the interchange of business. Complaints have been frequently made that traffic is required to be moved long distances and at considerable loss of time and expense for lack of connections at junction points.

The commission should have authority to establish joint through rates for the movement of freight over two or more railroads. The present method of charging the sum of the local rate for each of the railroads involved makes, in many cases, an exorbitant charge. All railroad companies should also be compelled by law to file their tariffs with the Railroad and Warehouse Commission, and no increase of rates be permitted to become effective in less than thirty days from the date of filing notice of such increase.

The Railroad and Warehouse Commission should also be given authority to compel all railroad companies operating in the State to provide reasonable facilities at all stations on their lines for the transaction of business, and no railroad should be permitted to discontinue station or track facilities without the consent of the commission.

STATE GRAIN INSPECTION DEPARTMENT.

From 1871 when our State, for the first time in this or any other country, assumed control of the classification into standard grades of the grain arriving at the principal primary markets within the State, the work of the Grain Inspection department has been carried on with hardly any change until within the last two years. Up to that time, it was the custom to inspect the grain in the cars on the track. This method, which left the determination of the grade of grain to a single inspector, subject to an appeal involving delay, has, especially in recent years, proved unsatisfactory.

The essential elements of satisfactory grain inspection are uniformity and accuracy. Under the old system, neither uniformity nor accuracy could be obtained. To remedy the defect of the old system, the department, about two years ago, began an investigation of the systems of inspecting grain in Minneapolis, Duluth and Buffalo, where modern and progressive systems of grain inspection had been adopted with great success. Under the system thereafter adopted by the Illinois Grain Inspection Department, grain is no longer inspected on the track, but all of the grain received from the twenty-three railroads engaged in the Chicago grain carrying trade, is inspected at a central point by three expert inspectors who pass judgment on representative samples drawn from the cars by experienced grain examiners.

The result has been eminently satisfactory. The new method has overcome the former lack of uniformity in inspections which formed one of the chief causes of complaint on the part of shippers of grain and tended to bring the State Grain Department into disrepute.

The new system has met with the approval of both shippers and grain dealers, as well as of the railroads, because of the fairness, promptness and finality of its inspections which have done away with delays in unloading and releasing cars arising from the appeals taken from former unsatisfactory inspections. The result has been a harmonious and friendly relationship between these interests heretofore unknown in the history of the department.

The business of grain inspection is steadily increasing. During the period 1901-1904 there were inspected at the Chicago grain inspection office 805,395,470 bushels, while during the period 1905-1908 there were inspected 996,693,477 bushels; an increase of 191,298,007 bushels.

Along with the great increase of business has gone on a steady improvement in the accuracy and uniformity of inspections. This is shown by a comparison of the number of reinspections demanded under the old system with those demanded under the new. Formerly the reinspection of 300 to 400 cars per month was necessary, while at present the average number of reinspections has been reduced to fifty per month.

Altogether, the work of the Grain Inspection Department has been greatly improved in all its features and is giving greater satisfaction to all interested in grain inspection than ever before. The transition from the old system, like every change of method, has aroused some criticism, but this has occurred in few instances and is in no way directed at the general excellence of the new method, which is admittedly a great improvement upon the old method.

ANTI-PASS LEGISLATION.

In my last biennial message, I called the attention of the General Assembly to the subject of legislation prohibiting the issuance or use of railroad passes. The national government has prohibited the use of such passes in interstate transportation and various states have adopted measures modeled on the lines of the national law for the abolition of the use of railroad passes on their intra-state railways.

I therefore again recommend the enactment of a measure prohibiting the use of railroad passes, modeled after the national law.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD CASE.

On February 10, 1851, the General Assembly passed an act incorporating the Illinois Central Railroad Company and granted to the company 2,595,000 acres of land to aid in the construction of the road. Subsequently, the company sold the greater portion of the land granted and realized therefrom a sum in excess of $30,000,000.

In consideration of the grants, privileges and franchises conferred by the State upon the company, it was agreed that the company should pay into the State treasury on the first Mondays of June and December of each year a sum equal to at least seven per cent of the gross receipts of the company, and for the purpose of ascertaining the amount of the gross receipts, the company was required by its charter to keep an accurate account, and to furnish a sworn copy thereof to the Governor of the State, who was authorized to verify the same.

An investigation of the accounts of the Illinois Central Railroad Company conducted by the Executive office in the years 1906-7 led to the filing by the Attorney General of a bill for accounting against the company in which claims were made on behalf of the State to certain sums alleged to be due from the railroad company under its obligation to pay into the treasury of the State seven per cent of its gross receipts.

The claims of the State are based upon the charge that for many years past the railroad company has failed to include in its reports numerous items of gross receipts, amounting in the aggregate to many millions of dollars. In the bill filed, these are enumerated, and include the following items:

Receipts of Cairo bridge	$ 7,497,720
Receipts of Dubuque bridge	3,155,696
Receipts from investments	61,902,358
Receipts from express	5,000,000
Receipts from restaurants, hotels, etc.	1,500,000
Receipts from Chicago real estate	68,133
Receipts for use of equipment by foreign lines	5,000,000
Receipts from grain elevators in Chicago	788,374
Receipts from grain elevators in Cairo	97,185
Receipts from interest on loans and deposits.....	3,000,000

It is claimed that certain amounts were deducted by the company from the gross receipts without any authority of law, and particularly that there was deducted:

On account of drayage	$ 2,000,000
On account of switching	5,000,000
On account of rebates	10,000,000

It is claimed that the company should have collected for services performed the following sums:

For carrying coal and supplies for non-charter lines.....	$10,000,000
For freights diverted from charter lines.....	2,000,000
For mileage books delivered in payment of newspaper advertising, etc..	1,295,000
For use of equipment by non-charter lines.....	3,000,000
For use of Chicago terminals by non-charter lines.....	2,140,000
For use of other terminals by non-charter lines.....	1,500,000

It is claimed in behalf of the State that in the division of earnings between the charter and non-charter lines the railroad company adopted numerous fraudulent schemes and devices which have resulted in defrauding the State out of several millions of dollars, and, finally, it is claimed that there is now due the State not less than $15,000,000.

The suit was begun in the Supreme Court under the constitutional provision conferring upon that Court original jurisdiction in all "cases relating to revenue."

In behalf of the railroad company a motion was filed to dismiss the case for want of jurisdiction and at the April term, 1907, the motion to dismiss was sustained by a divided court. The court in its opinion sustaining the motion to dismiss said:

"As to whether this court as a matter of fact has original jurisdiction of the subject matter of this case or not, the members of this court are not all of the same opinion, but it is the view of the majority, however, that this motion should be allowed and the State allowed to prosecute this suit in the Circuit or Superior Courts. Accordingly the case will be dismissed. The State will have the right to withdraw its bill in this case without prejudice to the right of complainant to maintain suit elsewhere."

The bill was thereupon, withdrawn by the Attorney General and immediately filed in the circuit court of LaSalle county to the June term, 1907, where the case is now pending.

The bill as filed in the circuit court of LaSalle county was later amended, so as to include certain irregularities reported subsequently to the filing of the bill by the accountants employed by the Executive Department to investigate the accounts of the railroad company. Demurrer was filed by the railroad company to the amended bill and arguments were heard upon the demurrer beginning November 18th and ending December 6, 1908, when the case was taken under advisement by the presiding Judge, Hon. Samuel C. Stough.

The labor involved in the preliminary investigation and in the preparation for trial of this suit has been enormous, but from the facts brought to light during the investigation and the preparation of the suit it is believed that the judicial determination of the proper basis for and method of accounting by the railroad company are of such importance to the State that the results will justify all the labor and expense which have been involved.

Of the appropriation of $100,000 made by the General Assembly to the Governor for the conduct of the investigation, $13,368.15 has been expended, all of which has been paid to the firm of certified accountants in charge of the work, leaving a balance on hand of $86,631.85.

It is likely that there will be such a disposition of the case now pending before the circuit court of LaSalle county that it will be known before the adjournment of the present General Assembly whether any additional expenditure will be required for the continuation of the investigation by the Executive office.

INSURANCE.

We have in the State of Illinois, of domestic and foreign origin, more than seven hundred insurance companies, collecting a little more than seventy-five millions of dollars annually in premiums. The business touches every household and enters into every financial and business relation.

Changes in the laws governing this subject should be very carefully and judiciously considered, and no existing condition should be disturbed unless there is a well defined and evident necessity for such change.

LIFE INSURANCE.

In my message to the Forty-fifth General Assembly, I took occasion to call attention to a number of important matters which, in my opinion, required at that time the attention of the Legislature, the chief and most important of which was the subject of life insurance.

Fourteen bills relating to this subject were proposed by the Insurance Department pursuant to the recommendations of the message, embracing a number of highly important changes in, and additions to, the life insurance code of this State.

These measures all became laws and have now been effective for approximately one year. Their operation has been highly beneficial to the insuring public and satisfactory to the companies.

No better evidence of the thorough and efficient work done on these laws could be produced than this action by the New York companies.

FIRE INSURANCE.

(a) All the laws upon our Statute books should, as far as possible, be so framed as to be easily understood and to need little interpretation. Where, by reason of frequent amendment or otherwise, any law has become involved or obscure, it should be re-written, so that its purpose may be made evident and compliance with its provisions simple.

Section 6 of the amended Act of 1869, relating to the organization of mutual fire insurance companies is, as I indicated in a former message, uncertain in meaning and would seem to permit the organization of mutual companies with a capitalization of $10,000 and no further liability upon the part of members, while stock companies, organized under the same act, issuing the same form of contracts and upon substantially the same plan, must have a capital of $100,000.00.

Formerly the law regulating mutual fire insurance companies provided for an additional or contingent liability not less than three times, nor more than five times, the cash payment mentioned in the policy contract.

It does not seem to have been the legislative intention to abandon entirely the contingent liability of the membership of these mutual companies.

The law, as it stands, is in several ways obscure and should be revised so as to provide for a substantial contingent liability for members of mutual fire companies, sufficient in amount and under such conditions as to ensure the safety of this form of indemnity against fire loss.

(b) The subject of fire waste is one of first importance to the people of this State. The losses by fire in Illinois during the past year (1908), as computed by what appears to be competent authority, amounted to more than fifteen millions of dollars, and only about sixty per cent of this enormous loss was covered by insurance.

It is probably true that we cannot in this country expect as low a loss ratio as in older countries, but we certainly should not find the fire losses to be more than $3.00 per capita in Illinois, against 45 cents in France and 60 cents in England.

The best way to secure a low fire insurance rate is by having a good risk, and the recent efforts of the fire insurance companies to reduce the fire waste by the organization of a fire prevention bureau should be recognized and encouraged, and such assistance as is found possible rendered by the State. Inspection, enforcement of proper building regulations, and prompt and vigorous prosecution for the crime of arson, are all proper means to this desirable end. The enactment of a law creating the office of fire marshal should receive your favorable consideration.

Such an office, clothed with proper power of inspection, would do much in a very short time to decrease the cost of insurance by reducing the fire waste. This has been done in Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Ohio, Alabama, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia and Washington, and the experience has been such as fully to warrant the conclusions above expressed. As the services of the fire marshal and his assistants would be paid for by the companies, the creation of this office would involve the imposition of no additional burden upon the tax-payer, while affording to the public generally, no less than to the insured, a greater protection against fire loss than under the present system.

(c) Lloyds.

If State supervision of the business of insurance is to be effectively accomplished, its purpose contemplates all forms of the business and all persons engaged in it should come within the operation of the insurance laws.

An unfortunate wording of a portion of section 22 of the general law governing fire insurance companies rendered the act void, by the decision of the Supreme Court, so far as it relates to Lloyds unincorporated associations and individual underwriters. They are not under State supervision and are not under legal obligation to make financial statements to the Insurance Department or to disclose the condition of their business, and persons representing them as agents are not licensed.

The operation of these concerns has in many instances been a disgrace to the State and is constantly a menace to the insuring public. A proper law should be passed prescribing the conditions upon which they may be authorized to do business in the State and providing a penalty for its violation. All forms of this business, and all persons engaged in it, should be brought under the supervision of the State Insurance Department.

(d) Section 8 of the fire insurance law, as amended in 1891, relates to the investment of the funds of domestic companies. Some portions of the act are obsolete, and some forms of investment provided for which are not now known to the commercial world. Some of the terms used are of very uncertain meaning.

The law should be revised and fashioned upon the lines indicated by the act of 1907 regulating the investments of domestic life insurance companies.

FRATERNAL INSURANCE SOCIETIES.

The remarkable growth and development of the fraternal insurance business, the amount of indemnity in force, the number of societies, and the variety of plans, in operation and proposed, for the conduct of this business, call for careful consideration by the General Assembly.

These fraternal societies should be encouraged and assisted in every way possible consistent with safety and soundness. Our act of 1907 provided for the examination of fraternal societies by the State Insurance Department, and for greater publicity of their business and financial affairs.

There should be further legislation providing that expense and mortuary funds should be separately levied and accounted for and a severe penalty provided for violation thereof by the use of mortuary funds for expense purposes.

There should also be established by law some test of solvency, so that the Insurance Department may intervene before a failing society becomes hopelessly bankrupt or in a condition where the membership declines to pay further assessments and all claims of the beneficiaries of deceased members are thereby lost.

I am informed by the Superintendent of Insurance that the rates hitherto charged by fraternal societies have not been adequate and that the assessment charges have been insufficient to furnish sound indemnity.

The more conservative of the societies recognize this and I am advised are considering legislation in the several states looking to the correction of this infirmity in their plan of operation.

They should be encouraged in this effort, but with higher rates and greater assessments will come increased responsibility and such legislation should be provided as will safeguard the increased assets.

The more nearly the fraternal societies approach the plan of insurance and the premium charges of legal reserve companies, the more nearly must the legislation applicable to both branches of this business coincide.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

In my inaugural message, I recommended the organization of an efficient Geological Survey. The Forty-fourth General Assembly passed the necessary legislation creating such a bureau and appropriated $25,000.00 per annum for its support. The Forty-fifth General Assembly, after reviewing the work accomplished, added a special appropriation of $15,000.00.

The general object of the Geological Survey is to make studies of the geological and mineral resources of the State with a view to their efficient and economical development.

Illinois now ranks third in its mineral industries, the total output of our mines in 1907 being $152,122,648.00. Any legislation touching so extensive an industry must be based upon exact knowledge. This it is the province of the Geological Survey to furnish.

The work is of particular importance at the present time in view of the aroused public interest in the conservation of our natural resources. Mineral resources differ from others in that they are stored products. Within certain limits, the fertility of a worn-out soil may be restored, deforested areas may be replanted, one year's water supply is followed by another; but such products as coal, gas and oil, once taken out, cannot be replaced. They should, therefore, be conserved with special care.

The study of lands subject to overflow, provided for by the special appropriation made by the Forty-fifth General Assembly, has been undertaken in coöperation with the Internal Improvement Commission of the State and the United States Department of Agriculture. Surveys have been made of the Kaskaskia river from Cowden to Chester; of the Big Muddy from Benton to Murphysboro, and of portions of the Sangamon, Little Wabash and Embarrass, and it has been estimated that over $100,000,000.00 will be added to the land values of the State if the lands subject to overflow in all Illinois river valleys can be reclaimed and protected.

Besides extensive studies related to our most important mineral product, coal, in which we rank as a producing State second only to Pennsylvania, many other minor mineral products have been made the subject of investigation by the commission, such as oil, natural gas areas, deposits of fire-clay and clays especially suitable for paving brick, silica deposits, material for the manufacture of Portland cement, limestone for building and other construction purposes and for use in the treatment of the extensive areas of acid soils of which 6,000,000 acres are found in twenty-three counties in the southern part of the State.

The importance of these studies may be illustrated by the direct bearing they have upon the improvement and development of our coal mining industry. Our present coal mine equipment is idle approximately forty per cent of the time. The coal studies of the Geological Survey Commission have been devoted to an investigation of methods for more thorough sampling for the prevention of depreciation and improved schemes for the storage of coal, for the securing of smokeless combustion and various other matters affecting the more thorough and economical consumption of coal, with a special view to the broadening of the markets for the Illinois product.

The great fuelless states to the northwest are bound, as their population and industries grow, to demand more coal. Whether this is to be supplied from Illinois or from competing fields will depend largely on the extent to which our local producers understand the demands of the northwest and are able so to prepare and ship their coal as to meet those demands.

In addition to this phase of the coal studies of the commission, preliminary studies have been made of the occurrence of gas and dust in the mines of the State and their relation to mine accidents. A thorough study of this subject should be made, through the Geological Survey, with a view to decreasing the great loss of life and property in our mines.

The necessity for a wise conservation of our natural resources has been recently brought prominently before the nation by President Roosevelt. At the conference at the White House in May last, the desirability of a more orderly planning of our development and for the coöperation of the states and the Nation in a definite program to that end were discussed. It is clear that any general policy with regard to the use of our soils, waters, minerals, plants and animals, must be based on exact knowledge of their character, extent and distribution. Fortunately Illinois already has accumulated much of this preliminary information and in its Agricultural Experiment Station, Engineering Experiment Station, Soil Survey, Water Survey, Geological Survey, Natural History Survey, Fish Commission, Game Commission, Internal Improvement Commission, Highway Commission and similar organizations, is exceptionally well equipped to study this problem in its broadest aspects. Only minor gaps exist and they may be easily closed. In order to insure the best possible correlation of the work of these commissions, and, acting on the request of the President for a local body to coöperate with the National Conservation Commission, I have recently constituted the heads of several of the State bureaus, together with representatives of certain important outside organizations, a State Conservation Commission. A temporary organization has been effected and permanent plans will be later laid before you. Illinois is in the lead in this great movement and is already receiving large benefits from intelligent study of its resources. It is of the highest importance that this leadership be maintained.

The extent and importance of the work of the Geological Survey can be seen from what has been said. The faster this work can be done, the sooner the State will reap the benefit.

At the rate permitted by the present annual appropriation, it will necessarily be many years before the whole State can be covered. I therefore submit to the General Assembly the consideration of the question of devoting to this work such additional appropriations as you may deem desirable and as the finances of the State will permit. In the great era of creative work upon which we are now entering, the development of our water power, the reclamation of our swamps, the protection of our soil and the reduction of waste in our mining and manufacturing, the best aid of science is needed at every point, and this should be made available as far as possible through the liberal maintenance of the Geological Survey Commission and other agencies which are engaged in the work of conserving our natural resources.

EDUCATIONAL COMMISSION.

The educational system of Illinois involves the control of 13,042 city, village and rural schools, employing 28,524 teachers and attended by 988,078 pupils. In the management of the public schools of this State, the services of 45,000 school officers are employed and in their maintenance $32,227,605.06 is annually expended.

A general revision of the law under which this important branch of the public service is now administered is highly desirable on account of the confusion into which the school laws of the State have fallen by reason of their multiplicity and lack of uniformity and consistency. As stated in my previous message, the school laws of Illinois now include the general school law, containing 301 sections, thirty-seven special charters, eight supplemental acts and twenty-one additional acts. Moreover, besides the statutes and charters which constitute the substantive school law of the State, there are four hundred court decisions construing them. The necessity for simplifying and coördinating the various parts of the law is manifest.

To the Educational Commission created by an act approved May 25, 1907, was assigned the task of revising and codifying the school law and of recommending such improvements in the school system as might seem advisable. It has revised, simplified, condensed and codified the general school law so that the thousands of school officers who have frequent occasion to use it may find it clear and explicit where it has been ambiguous or contradictory. In the opinion of those who are best informed upon the subject, this revision of the school laws is the necessary preliminary to any general improvement of our educational system.

The commission has also, after exhaustive studies, proposed certain recommendations in regard to improving the public school system of the State. Among these are the creation of a State Board of Education, a new plan for the certification of teachers, the township system of school organization and a minimum salary law for teachers.

Both the revision and the recommendations of the commission will be presented in detail in a report of the commission to your Honorable Body. They should receive your most careful consideration. Such improvements in the school law and the school system should be made as will meet the educational needs of the State and secure the general approval of our citizens.

THE STATE UNIVERSITY.

The needs of the State University are respectfully commended to your attention. The University has already become one of the largest institutions of learning in the United States. It should be our aim to make it one of the best. The University should be so complete in its organization and equipment as to supply every facility for the acquirement of higher education which can be found in any similar institution in the country.

The University is the foundation of our educational system. Without the work which it performs in the way of advancing our knowledge and training our citizens, it would be impossible to develop a sound system of public education.

Many branches of the instruction afforded by our State University are of the most immediate practical importance. This is notably the case with respect to the work of the College of Agriculture and the Agricultural Experiment Station which have revolutionized farming methods in this and other states. Much the same benefit has been conferred upon the engineering work of the country through the means of education afforded along engineering lines by the Engineering College and the Engineering Experiment Station. These are now doing for engineering what the Agricultural College and Experiment Station have been doing for agriculture.

The College of Education strongly supplements the work of our normal schools. The Courses in Commerce afford to those who seek training for business careers a liberal education along related lines, such as trade and commerce, domestic and foreign, and the course of industrial development.

The work of the Graduate School, for the establishment of which the last General Assembly made the first appropriation, has promoted original research and investigation of all subjects which are of interest to the people of the commonwealth and has raised the University to the plane occupied by the great universities of this and other countries.

The Chemical Laboratory is turning out trained men for our chemical industries. No more striking example can be found of the advantage of the application of science to industrial processes than has been afforded by Germany in the up-building of its chemical industries. That country has obtained a practical monopoly in certain important branches of industry by the development of its scientific laboratories. We can break that monopoly, in Illinois at any rate, by the wise fostering of this most important department of the University.

Excellent work is being done also by the State Water Survey in testing our water supplies and investigating the best methods of making them available for public and industrial purposes.

The report of the State University will present to the General Assembly a request for appropriations to enlarge the present university library which, as the report states, is entirely too small to meet the requirements of such an institution. The present library ranks only with those of smaller colleges of the better types.

To accomplish the large aims of this great institution adequate appropriations are necessary and the recommendations contained in its report are well worthy your careful consideration.

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSION.

The work of the State Highway Commission shows a steady increase since its formation three years ago. That there has been a very general interest aroused in all sections of the State concerning road improvement is shown by the large number of public meetings to which the commission has been invited to send speakers. In 1906, 48 meetings were attended; in 1907, 111; in 1908, 128. In addition to public meetings very many requests have been received from local officials concerning road and bridge improvement. In 1908 there were 228 road inspections made; 173 bridge inspections; and 137 conferences to which representatives of the commission were sent to confer with local officials on matters pertaining to road and bridge work.

The majority of the public meetings attended were Farmers Institutes, invitations being received from nearly every county in the State for a speaker on the institute program.

The commission furnishes without charge to the local officials estimates, plans and supervision for bridge construction, thereby enabling the various communities to secure properly designed bridges at a price considerably less than has hitherto been paid in many instances for structures very much poorer in design. This one feature alone has saved to the taxpayers of the State many times the total appropriation made for the commission.

Particular emphasis has been laid upon the advisability of constructing all small bridges entirely of concrete, replacing cheap steel and worn out wooden bridges with this form of construction, thereby eliminating future cost of maintenance.

The maintenance of earth roads has received special consideration from the commission, and the use and advantage of the earth road drag has been explained in bulletins of which more than 100,000 have been distributed. It has been estimated that 15,000 road drags have been brought into use since the commission first drew the attention of local road authorities to the effectiveness of this form of earth road maintenance, and 15,000 miles of road have been thus maintained during the past year. Much study has been given by the commission to some cheap form of construction to render earth roads in good condition throughout the year. Special attention has been given to the effect of oil for this purpose. The results of the experiments of the commission will determine whether the cost of this work will be prohibitive and whether the results obtained will be worth the expense.

The commission has received many requests for experimental work of various kinds but has been able to undertake only a small part of the work requested. The character of the work undertaken by the commission in local road construction and improvement has been in every instance at the request of the local authorities, and carried out as nearly as possible in accordance with their desires.

THE STATE FOOD COMMISSION.

The passage by the national government in 1907 of a food inspection law, led to the revision of food inspection laws by a number of states. Our State, which occupies the foremost place in the manufacture and sale of food products, was among the first to enter upon such revision. The revision answered a double purpose. It improved the body of the law by bringing its requirements up to modern standards of food inspection and increased the facility of its administration by conforming the provisions of the State to those of the national law.

The result has been complete and harmonious coöperation between the State and federal food authorities since the passage by the last General Assembly of the new State food inspection law.

During 1908, the State Food Commission has published and distributed among manufacturers and dealers in food products 5,000 copies of its last annual report, 20,000 copies of the new State food law, 50,000 bulletins setting forth the work accomplished by the department and 15,000 copies of the new rulings and tentative standards adopted by the department. In this way, the trade has been made familiar with the provisions of the new law and the very general disposition to comply with its requirements has been gratifying.

Within the past year also the State food inspectors have taken over 6,000 samples of foods. All these have been subjected to chemical analysis with the result that 4,200 were found to be pure and 1,800 either adulterated, misbranded or in some other particular failing to conform to the food law.

Prior to the passage of the new national and State food laws, food adulteration had become very general. Lack of jurisdiction of the states beyond their own borders and the ease with which adulterated and misbranded foods could enter a state under the provisions of the interstate commerce law, made it nearly impossible to prevent the flooding of the markets with such food products. The conforming of standards, State and national, and the cooperation of Federal and State food departments, have greatly simplified the duties and furthered the work of both. The detection of adulterations and the fixing of legal liability therefor has now become merely a question of analysis by the chemist and a comparison of the samples with the labels and standards fixed by both national and State food laws. On the other hand, conformity with the requirements of the law on the part of manufacturers and dealers has been equally simplified, and they are complying more generally than ever before in the State's history with the law's requirements.

It is estimated that eighty-five per cent of the manufacturers and packers of food products are not only complying with the provisions of the law themselves, but are rendering the department substantial aid in securing its enforcement against those who seek to evade its provisions. This means the eventual withdrawal from the market of all food products containing chemical preservatives or made from impure, inferior and unwholesome ingredients and a corresponding improvement in health conditions.

The report which the commission will submit to the General Assembly contains recommendations in regard to an increase in the working force of the department and calls attention to the fact that Illinois is not only the foremost manufacturer of food products but is the chief distributing point of food products as well, and that while the volume of work of our food department is as great as that of any other state, New York employs forty-five, Pennsylvania thirty-six and Ohio twenty-nine, while Illinois employs but twelve inspectors. The report shows that New York appropriates for this purpose $225,000, Pennsylvania $175,000 and Ohio $95,000, whilst Illinois appropriates but $37,500. The report therefore urges the appointment of at least thirty inspectors and fifteen chemists with the necessary increase of appropriation, in order thoroughly to meet the demands upon the department.

I trust that the General Assembly will give these questions the consideration which their merit and importance require.

FISH COMMISSION.

During the past two years, the State Fish Commission has made great progress in the work of stocking Illinois rivers and lakes with high-class food fishes. Twenty-five million fertilized eggs were received by the commission during 1908 from the United States Food Commission, sixty-six per cent of which were successfully hatched out and distributed in Illinois waters.

A new hatchery has been erected at Havana, fully equipped for the hatching of the finer varieties of native fish.

The important service rendered to the State by the Illinois Fish Commission is evident from the volume of business transacted by the fisheries along the Illinois river, which is second only to the Columbia river in the extent of its fish industries. During the two years just passed, there have been shipped from nineteen towns on the Illinois river more than 34,000,000 pounds of edible fish, worth more than three quarters of a million dollars.

The Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional certain provisions of the law, passed at the last session of the General Assembly, relating to fish and game including the section requiring the payment of a license fee by any person desiring to fish in any of the waters of the State. The commission has been deriving a portion of its revenue from such licenses and the law should be so amended as to provide sufficient funds for the maintenance of the department.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

The increasing interest taken by the State in the regulation of conditions surrounding labor has resulted in the gradual imposition of additional duties upon the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The last General Assembly enacted a law requiring employers of labor to report to the bureau all fatal accidents and all non-fatal accidents involving a loss of thirty days employment or more, which data the bureau is required to tabulate and publish in yearly reports.

The present biennial report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics presents the results of an investigation of establishments employing women, covering thirty-seven industries and eighty-six establishments, employing 2,500 female employes out of a total of 13,000 employed in such establishments.

The report also shows that there was received at the different free employment offices during the year 1908, 45,373 applications for employment, of which 34,736 were placed in positions at a cost to the State of eighty-five cents per capita.

The report on the coal industry shows that Illinois continues to hold her place as the second coal producing State in the country. There are now in operation in Illinois 922 coal mines, employing 71,000 men and producing, last year, 49,500,000 tons the value of which at the mines was nearly $51,000,000. Compared with the record of 1882, the first year after the passage of the State mining law providing for reports, the number of mines has increased 31 per cent, employes 249 per cent, production 347 per cent and the value 273 per cent.

Since the passage of the law enacted at the last session of the General Assembly requiring employers of labor to report accidents occurring to their employes, 3,012 accidents, of which 622 were fatal and 2,390 were non-fatal, have been reported.

In view of the unusual number of accidents which have occurred in the coal mines of our State during the past year, I have directed the chairman of the Mining Board to order a number of the State Mine Inspectors to any mine where a serious accident may occur to make a joint investigation of the causes thereof and to submit a joint report thereon. Such reports will furnish data upon which to base remedial legislation. These reports will be submitted to the appropriate committees of the General Assembly. It is my earnest hope that some means may be found to afford more adequate protection to human life and limb in our coal-mining industry.

DEPARTMENT OF FACTORY INSPECTION.

Under the law enacted by the Forty-fifth General Assembly, the Illinois Department of Factory Inspection was made a distinct and separate department of the State government.

Various bills amendatory of the factory inspection law were submitted to the General Assembly at the same session. Of these, two were enacted into law, an act relating to the manufacture of butterine and ice cream, and an act providing for the protection and safety of persons employed in and about of the construction, repairing, alteration or removal of buildings, viaducts and other structures. Other bills submitted by the department failed of passage. This failure led in two instances to the presentation of resolutions, one of which provided for the appointment by the Governor of a commission to investigate the most advisable method or methods of providing for the health, safety and comfort of employes in factories, mercantile establishments, mills and workshops, known as the Hazardous and Dangerous

Machinery Commission; the other for the appointment by the Governor of a commission to investigate the causes and conditions related to diseases peculiar to certain occupations, known as the Occupational Diseases Commission.

These commissions will report to your Honorable Body at the present session the result of their investigations and will, no doubt, accompany their report with such proposed bills as they deem necessary to remedy existing abuses.

Other matters which will be submitted to you by the State Factory Inspection Department are, the enactment of a law relative to public buildings and places of amusement, requiring additional safeguards against fire and panic, especially in buildings occupied by moving picture devices, which are at present without statutory regulation; the amendment of the law relative to fire escapes, requiring the installation of modern equipment and mechanical devices for the prevention of fire; the enactment of a law for the supervision of the manufacture of clothing, for the better protection of those employed in such work and for the safeguarding of the public health against contagion, and a law for the regulation of the employment of women and their hours of labor.

All proposed legislation and other matters coming under the jurisdiction of the Factory Inspection Department you will find discussed at length in the report of the department. The report also presents in detail the work accomplished during the past two years. Some of the more important features follow:

In the last two years the Factory Inspectors' Department has inspected 135,209 establishments under the child labor law; the percentage of child labor to the number of adults is 1.2 per cent. This is the greatest reduction shown in any industrial state. Through the enforcement of the child labor law during the past two years the school attendance has been considerably increased, the inspectors having dismissed from the factories several thousand children who have been returned to the school room. Two years ago children between fourteen and sixteen, who were dismissed from factories, because of the failure to have proper school papers, or working certificates on file, or who had been working more than the legal limit of eight hours a day were not under the control of the school authorities, as the compulsory school attendance law's maximum limit was fourteen.

During the last regular session of the General Assembly this age limit was raised to sixteen, so that today all children under fourteen must attend school, and all children between fourteen and sixteen must either attend school or go to work. This has been a great benefit, and has increased the school attendance by many thousands.

During the past eighteen months the Department of Factory Inspection has inspected 801 establishments where ice cream and butterine are manufactured; all these establishments required re-inspections, because alterations along the line of sanitation had to be made in all except four. This has brought about an exceptionally clean and healthy condition in the manufacture of ice cream.

The act providing for the protection of metal polishers has been so uniformly enforced throughout the State during the past few years by the Department of Factory Inspection, that only a few months ago, the Polishers' Journal—the official organ of the National Metal Polishers' Union—printed an editorial setting forth the condition of the metal polishers in the United States in detail, and in such editorial appears the statement that "metal polishers are better protected today in Illinois than in any other state in the Union." The death rate of metal polishers in Illinois has been reduced 60 per cent in the last year through the enforcement of this law.

The death rate in Illinois in the structural iron workers' trade two years ago was 31 per annum. Through the enforcement of the law for the protection of the structural iron workers, the death rate has been reduced more than two-thirds.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

I call your attention to the advantages of the enactment of a law providing for better methods of registration of vital statistics, such as will be in conformity with those adopted by leading states and in accordance with the provisions of the Census Bureau of the United States Government. The value of such statistics is lost, unless they be accurate, complete and uniform with similar data with which they are constantly subject to comparison. Inasmuch as fifteen of the states, representing approximately one-half the population of the nation, have adopted the methods of uniform registration employed by the Census Bureau, it is important that Illinois should employ similar methods. At present Illinois is not classed by the United States Census Bureau with the registration states.

There is also need for the revision of one section of the act to regulate the practice of medicine. Through a decision rendered by the Supreme Court, the State Board of Health is without jurisdiction over those physicians and other practitioners who were licensed prior to the enactment of the present medical practice act, July 1, 1899. This decision renders the board powerless to revoke the licenses of any one of the large majority of those now in practice within the State, however justifiable such action would be. An amendment to the medical practice act giving the board jurisdiction over all those now licensed by the State, was introduced in the Forty-fifth General Assembly, at the instance of the State Board of Health. The bill passed the House, but was amended in the Senate so as to limit the board's authority to those licensed since July 1, 1899. I recommend that the desired amendment be now enacted so that the people may be adequately protected, and so that the authority of the State Board of Health may be uniform in its application to all practitioners.

I further recommend the continuation of the appropriation made by the Forty-fifth General Assembly for the free distribution of antitoxin for the treatment and prevention of diphtheria. The distribution of antitoxin has proven most effectual as a means of preventing the spread of this deadly disease. During the past two years, free antitoxin in Illinois has unquestionably saved the lives of many hundreds who would otherwise have perished. It has also brought about the prompt suppression of the disease when serious epidemics must otherwise have occurred.

Two hundred stations outside of Chicago, have been established by the State Board of Health, for the distribution of antitoxin. Through these agencies 11,352 packages of the antitoxin, prepared in syringes ready for use, have been distributed to physicians in all parts of the State. The aggregate cost of the antitoxin distributed has been less than $13,000.00. I am informed by the State Board of Health that if this had been purchased at ordinary current prices by individual families, it would have cost $48,000.00.

Reports made by physicians to the State Board of Health show that during the year ending September 30, 1908, 2,552 patients were treated with the antitoxin and 4,211 treatments were administered. Of the 2,552 patients, 180 died, a death rate of 7.05 per cent. Medical statistics show that the death rate from diphtheria, previous to the introduction of the antitoxin treatment, was forty per cent of the ordinary cases, while in the most serious cases there were no recoveries. In addition, the antitoxin has been used as a preventive and has been administered for this purpose to 2,250 persons who were not suffering from diphtheria but had been exposed to the disease, 1,272 residing in the same houses with diphtheria patients, 642 in the same rooms and 141 occupying the same beds. Out of the 2,250 persons thus treated for preventive purposes, but 37 afterwards contracted the disease.

THE LIVE STOCK COMMISSION.

The Forty-fifth General Assembly enacted legislation giving the Board of Live Stock Commissioners jurisdiction over animals suspected of being affected with any disease that might render their carcasses unfit for human consumption. This is the first legislation conferring upon the commission powers which are to be exercised in the protection of the public health. It has resulted in a great enlargement of the work of the commission and necessitates the employment of a much larger force in disposing of the increased volume of business. A detailed account of the work of the commission will be found in its report, but special attention is called to a few important features.

Bovine tuberculosis, which for years worked unchecked among the dairy and breeding herds of the State, and which is now attacking other classes of animals brought in contact with diseased cattle, is yielding and may be eradicated with the intelligent use of tuberculin and the prevention of new infection by closing the channels through which it is brought into the State.

The commission has, with the aid of the State Veterinarian, made tuberculin tests of all cattle belonging to the State at the various State institutions, aggregating nearly 1,000 head. All reacting animals have been destroyed and the depleted herds built up by the purchase of healthy cattle after their subjection to the tuberculin test. No cattle, except such as show entire freedom from tuberculosis are now admitted to any of the State institution herds. The pressing necessity for work of this character is manifest from the fact that in some of the institution herds as many as sixty per cent of the cattle were found to be affected with tuberculosis.

An outbreak of foot and mouth disease in several of the other states during the month of November, 1908, made it necessary to quarantine against the localities where the disease was known to exist and to prohibit the importation therefrom of all animals which were subject to infection. This emergency disclosed the inadequacy of existing laws for the protection of the live stock of the State. Amendatory legislation will be submitted by the commission to the General Assembly during the present session and should receive your favorable consideration.

A bill for the inspection of slaughter houses throughout the State was introduced in the Forty-fifth General Assembly, but failed of passage. Legislation of this character is of great importance. Under the present law, the beneficial effects of inspection are almost entirely confined to the great packing centers where government inspection is maintained and the markets supplied by them. One of the consequences of this limitation upon inspection is that cattle known to be infected with disease are freely taken to private abattoirs, where they may be slaughtered without inspection, and sold in the local markets for human food. The conditions at some of these private abattoirs are intolerable. At many of them, twenty-five to fifty head of cattle are slaughtered weekly. The products of these animals which are not utilized are allowed to remain undisturbed until the next animals are slaughtered and, in the summer time, when all kinds of insects abound, they carry and disseminate this infected material. Such conditions should not be allowed to continue. The same necessity for cleanliness exists here as in the great packing centers and the public is as much entitled to protection against infection from this source as from any other.

Measures correcting the defects referred to should be enacted at the present session.

STATE ARCHITECT.

The report of the professional work for the State of Illinois undertaken by the State Architect during the last two years shows that plans and specifications for all of the buildings and improvements for which the last General Assembly made appropriations were completed in due time. Nearly all of the buildings thus planned, as well as the proposed improvements, are entirely completed and the buildings occupied. Others are now nearing completion and the few remaining ones are well under way. In addition to this new work, the buildings which the last report described as unfinished have been fully completed.

The State was extremely fortunate in its building operations during the past year. The decided decrease in the cost of building materials, due in large part to the financial disturbance of a year ago, made it possible to erect buildings of a higher type of construction, as well as of larger size than would have been the case under ordinary circumstances. An unusual and thoroughly active competition among contractors, together with this low cost of material, resulted in the building of all of the hospitals, as well as other structures requiring high class fireproof construction, without diminishing the desired size or needed capacity of the buildings.

Unusual interest must attach also to the extensive rehabilitation in the physical condition of the State charitable institutions undertaken and accomplished during the last year. A decided improvement has been effected in connection with the heating and ventilating of many of these buildings. The danger of destruction or loss by fire has been materially lessened by supplying additional fire-escapes, creating new exits and installing improved water supply systems and apparatus for extinguishing fires. The sanitary conditions of all the buildings have been greatly bettered by a thorough overhauling of the plumbing and complete cleaning and refinishing of all plaster and wood surfaces.

It is important to observe that a part of this work at the institutions was accomplished by the inmates and patients, thus furnishing them with healthy exercise and desirable productive occupation while at the same time securing for the State a saving in the cost of labor.

I desire again to call the attention of the General Assembly to the urgent necessity for a revision of the statute creating the office of State Architect, defining his duties and fixing his compensation, to which I had occasion to call attention in my special message of October 8, 1907. No final action in this matter was taken by the General Assembly before its adjournment. The feature of the law in which revision is sought is that relating to percentage of compensation. It is not proposed to change the salary of the State Architect. The percentage allowed to the State Architect under the present law is one and one-half per cent, which I am informed is entirely inadequate to meet the necessary expenditure for high class architectural service, such as the work of the State demands.

The State Architect has submitted to me a statement showing that the net cost to an architect for services rendered in private practice averages more than 3 per cent of the cost of the work. The cost to the office of the architect of the school board of Chicago for preparing plans and specifications and for general supervision exceeds 3 per cent of the cost of the building. The cost to the architect under whose supervision the Federal government printing office was built for draughtsmen and office expenses, amounted to 6-10 per cent of the cost, exclusive of the cost of experts in heating, ventilation, plumbing, electrical installation and the architect's salary. In England 5 per cent of the cost of the work is paid the architect for expenses, and for other work usually done in this country by an architect the owner pays 2 per cent additional to a surveyor. In the state of New York the State Architect receives a salary of $7,500 and the expenses of his office are unlimited, being paid from special appropriations. As only in New York and Illinois the office of State Architect really exists, no further comparison can be made.

The building of modern fire-proof structures, such as are now being erected for State purposes, requires the highest class of architectural skill. The compensation offered by the State should be sufficient to attract such skill to the State's service. This cannot be secured and permanently retained when the compensation is inadequate. The State should be protected in the construction of its public buildings by the best professional supervision.

To this end, the Executive Department should be afforded the means of employing and retaining the services of a skillful architect. The value of retaining such services must be apparent. In the course of his official experience, a State Architect becomes familiar with the conditions obtaining in the State institutions and makes a study of their needs. He is thus enabled to adopt a uniform style of building for similar institutions throughout the State, which permits the construction work to be carried on more economically and efficiently than could otherwise be done. It is manifest, for instance, that had the Executive Department been obliged to employ different architects in the erection of the many buildings covered by the above statement, it would have resulted in lack of uniformity of construction, great additional labor and a largely increased expenditure of the public money.

Moreover, the State Architect, in the course of his official experience, acquires an acquaintance with building contractors and is thus enabled to secure a much keener competition among them than it would be possible to secure under other circumstances, with great advantage to the State.

Owing to the inadequacy of compensation, the State Architect, whose report will be filed with the present General Assembly, tendered his resignation more than six months ago, but at my urgent solicitation, continued in the State's service until December 31st. His work has been performed in the most efficient manner, with scrupulous honesty and at financial sacrifice and it is unfortunate that the State has not been able to retain his services.

The General Assembly should provide such compensation as will enable the State to procure and retain the services of a competent, experienced and thoroughly reliable official in this important office.

NATIONAL GUARD.

The organization of the National Guard is at this time the same as that of the United States Army, comprising divisional, brigade and regimental organization. Its equipment is nearly the same as that of the regular army, and should be made the same.

During the present administration an armory building has been erected to house the Seventh Infantry, at a cost of $150,000.00, this amount being used for the building alone, the ground site having been donated to the State. A boat-house has been erected for the Naval Reserve at a cost of $7,500.00, and the ground on which the Second Infantry armory is located has been purchased for $35,000.00.

The National Guard has been incorporated as a part of the national forces and the United States is exerting every effort to perfect its efficiency.

During the summer of 1907, a battalion of the Fourth Infantry, U. S. A., was detailed to participate in the annual encampment of the Guard at Springfield and was of great benefit to the troops there encamped. It was the first time that a battalion of the Federal troops had been assigned to any State to assist in training the National Guard. Three regiments, the First Infantry, the Fourth Infantry, the Eighth Cavalry, and a detachment of the Signal Corps from this State took part in the army maneuvers at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis during the past summer, and acquitted themselves with great credit to the State.

Rifle practice has been greatly encouraged and the officers and men are becoming proficient in the use of the arm furnished by the United States Government.

Before being commissioned, the officers of the Guard are required to pass a very rigid examination and boards for this purpose are convened monthly.

The Illinois National Guard is recognized by the War Department as one of the most efficient organizations of its kind in the United States and it is entitled to the earnest and liberal support of the citizens of Illinois.

The efficiency of the National Guard was signally demonstrated during the recent riots at Springfield, a detailed account of which is contained in the report of the Adjutant General. A situation entirely beyond the power of the local civil authorities and which threatened to culminate in the loss of many lives and the destruction of much property, was quickly brought under control with the arrival of the first companies of the National Guard. From the moment the rioters were brought face to face with the troops, the disturbance abated and normal conditions were speedily restored. The National Guard can be depended on to meet such emergencies. Its effective work in restoring order will result in permanent good, however, only when followed up by the successful prosecution, by the civil authorities, of participants in the destruction of life and property.

INCREASED APPROPRIATIONS.

The increased work imposed upon various institutions and departments by the growth of the public business, has led many of them, in their reports, to submit to the General Assembly requests for additional appropriations. I call the attention of your Honorable Body to this matter, which should receive careful consideration at your hands.

EXECUTIVE EXPENDITURES.

For a statement of expenditures made by me for this department from funds subject to my order, your attention is directed to the biennial report of the Auditor of Public Accounts for the period ending September 30, 1908. Vouchers for all such expenditures have been filed in the Auditor's office.

Mr. King rose to a question of personal privilege and presented the following statement and asked and obtained unanimous consent to have the same incorporated in the Journal of the House:

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., March 10, 1909.

Mr. Speaker—On Thursday, February 25th, on the floor of this House the undersigned, a member of the Joint Recount Committee on the Governorship contest, stated that during the evening session of said Recount Committee, held in the Senate Chamber at 7:30 o'clock p. m., February 24th, 1909, stated that one Mr. George Cooke, one of the attorneys representing the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, in his argument before said committee, withdrew and waived that part of said contestant's petition filed in said contest proceedings wherein the claim was made that aliens had illegally voted for Charles S. Deneen at said last general election for Governor. Mr. Speaker, this statement was flatly denied by the honorable member of this House, Mr. Browne, from La Salle county, who admitted that he was not present at said session and the statement was made by such gentlemen that the undersigned had misstated the facts in so quoting Mr. Cooke.

In order that the truth in the premises made be made apparent, I herewith attach the affidavit of the stenographer who took down the statement of Mr. Cooke concerning said aliens, together with the statement of divers reputable members of this House who were present at said session of said committee, thereto. The same being as follows, to-wit:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, }
County. } ss.

Neil Satterlee, being first duly sworn on oath, states that he is a resident of the City of Chicago, County of Cook and State of Illinois; that he was present at a session of the Joint Recount Committee of the Forty-sixth General Assembly, held in the Senate Chamber on the evening of February 24th, A. D., 1909; that he acted as one of the official stenographers for said committee and took down in shorthand the remarks of George Cooke, one of the attorneys representing the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, and that the said Mr. Cooke among other things made the following statement to said committee, to-wit

"And I want to say to the committee that while it is possible, and we could have gotten more than the number Mr. Berry specified, it would be possible for us to show that several hundred aliens we know of had voted in this election and we could prove they voted for Governor Deneen, we abandon that part of the petition, we do not expect to make any proof along that line and we are relying solely and alone upon the allegations in this petition which state that the votes were miscounted. That votes which were cast for Mr. Stevenson were counted for Governor Deneen."

And affiant further states that he then and there took down in shorthand the above remarks of the said Cooke and that the same are truly and correctly transcribed, as above stated. And affiant further saith not.

NEIL SATTERLEE.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 9th day of March, A. D., 1909.

WHEREAS, There has been recently organized in this country a gigantic trade combination and monopoly in connection with the manufacture and sale of moving picture films, machines and the apparatus used therewith, and

WHEREAS, Such combination is intended to destroy competition and to secure a monopoly in this line of business to the parties to such combination,

Be it resolved, That the Senators and Representatives of the State of Illinois in Congress are hereby requested to oppose any increase of duty on imported, manufactured moving picture films, and all other legislation which may tend to aggrandize such monopoly;

Be it further resolved, That the Senators and Representatives of the State of Illinois in Congress are hereby requested to aid in procuring an investigation of such monopoly to be made by Federal intervention, and in instituting proceedings and passing laws to suppress such combination and monopoly.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Senators and Representatives of the State of Illinois in Congress by the Clerk of this House.

And the motion prevailed.

Whereupon, the Honorable, the Senate, withdrew.

The House resuming its session.

Mr. Reynolds, from the Joint Committee on Contest presented the following report and moved its adoption:

IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST OF ADLAI STEVENSON VERSUS CHARLES S. DENEEN FOR THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

To the General Assembly, State of Illinois:

Report of the committees appointed under House Joint Resolution No. 7, in the above entitled cause.

Your committee appointed under such resolution on February 10th, 1909, most respectfully report: That they met in pursuance to said resolution and organized said committee by the election of Representative Earl B. Reynolds, Chairman and Senator Herman H. Breidt, Secretary. And notified the respective parties in interest that they were ready to proceed with such contest. That on Tuesday, February 16th, 1909, at four o'clock p. m., your committee met in the Senate Chamber of the Capitol Building, Springfield, Illinois, for the purpose of proceeding with such contest. That at such meeting Mr. Ross C. Hall, of Chicago, Illinois, and Mr. George A. Cook, of Aledo, Illinois, appeared as attorneys for the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, and Mr. Orville F. Berry, of Carthage, Illinois, appeared for the contestee, Charles S. Deneen.

The matter of contest coming on for hearing before your committee on the original petition signed by the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, and on a written motion filed by Charles S. Deneen, the contestee, to require the petitioner to file a bill of particulars, specifying the causes of such contest.

The respective parties through their counsel presented arguments and briefs in relation to the subject matter of such contest to your committee, and after such arguments and upon due consideration, your committee determined that the original petition presented and filed by the contestant is insufficient and does not present a prima facie case as required by law. whereupon your committee, upon motion, entered a rule upon the contestant to file a bill of particulars before said committee within ten days from this day.

Your committee reports that although ten days have elapsed since said rule was entered by your committee the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, or any one for him has not filed with the Clerk of the House or with your committee any such bill of particulars.

Therefore, your committee after due consideration of said cause, find that in said original petition filed by the said Adlai E. Stevenson, it is charged:

First—That in a number of counties in the State of Illinois a large number of foreign born persons who were not naturalized citizens of the United States, nor of the State of Illinois, voted at said election held November 3, 1909, for Charles S. Deneen, the contestee.

Second—It is charged in said petition that a large number of persons in several counties in said State of Illinois, who were not citizens of the State of Illinois and who had no legal right to vote in said State, voted for the contestee, Charles S. Deneen.

Third—That a large number of votes cast in several counties of the State of Illinois were cast for the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson and by the election officers were counted for the contestee, Charles S. Deneen.

Your committee further report that at the joint session of your committee, held in the Senate Chamber February 24th, 1909, and during the proceedings of your committee, counsel for the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, withdrew all charges and allegations in said contestant's petition referring to the class of voters above referred to in items one and two leaving only in said petition the allegations relating to votes cast for the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson and improperly counted for Charles S. Deneen, the contestee. The withdrawing of the allegations of such petition above referred to leaves the matter at issue before your committee as follows:

The petition to be passed upon by your committee alleges that the contestant was the candidate of the democratic party of the State of Illinois for the office of Governor, that the contestant was more than thirty years of age and a citizen of the United States and the State of Illinois and had been for more than five years preceding such election on November 3, 1908; that

Charles S. Deneen was the regular candidate of the republican party for such office at such election. That the contestant received 526,912 votes for such office and that Charles S. Deneen received 550,076 votes for such office, as shown by the canvass of the votes by the proper officers and that later said Charles S. Deneen was duly declared by the proper election officers, elected Governor of the State of Illinois.

The principal charge in said petition to be passed upon by your committee in connection with the above facts and from which your committee are to determine whether or not a prima facie case has been made, and whether or not the ballots should be opened and counted to determine that question, is in the following language on the first page of the printed petition of contestant:

"Your petitioner further states the fact to be that said Charles S. Deneen was not duly elected as Governor of the said State of Illinois at such election, but that on the contrary a plurality of the legal voters of the said State of Illinois, whose votes were cast at such election voted for your petitioner * * * and that 20,000 votes were cast at said election in said State for the petitioner, which votes were counted for said Charles S. Deneen."

It is charged in said petition on same page from which the above quotation is taken, that 15,000 persons of foreign birth, who were not naturalized and 15,000 persons who were not residents of the State of Illinois, voted at said election for Charles S. Deneen. The petitioner having upon the hearing before your committee abandoned both said charges, leaving only the charges above quoted, namely that 20,000 votes were cast at such election for the petitioner, Adlai E. Stevenson, and counted for Charles S. Deneen.

The above charge is the only general charge left in the petition. It is, however, charged in such petition that in numerous counties in this State, naming the counties, that certain votes were cast in such counties for the contestant and counted for the contestee. This is the most specific and definite allegation made in said petition by the contestant.

Your committee call attention to the fact that all voting in this State is done at such election by precincts and not by counties and your committee believes such allegations should be by precincts and not by counties.

The contention of counsel for the contestant is that the petition is sufficient upon its face to warrant this committee in entertaining the petition, upon the grounds that under the construction of the Statute and the decisions of the courts it is sufficient to establish a prima facie case and to justify the introduction of the ballots and a recount thereof. The contention of the contestee is that the petition both in its original form and as finally presented for consideration to your committee as herein above stated is wholly insufficient and does not under the most liberal construction of the statute of this State and the decisions of the courts justify this committee in sending for, opening or counting the ballots. It is further contended by the contestee that said petition is wholly insufficient to overcome the presumption of regularity as found by the election officers in the State of Illinois at such election.

And that before this committee should sustain such petition and direct the opening of the ballots it should be satisfied from the petition or other evidence introduced in support thereof that there is reasonable probability that if such ballots were opened and counted it would change the results of such election. Your committee, after considering the arguments of counsel and the briefs submitted by them and a careful examination of the petition presented find, That the petition as presented to them is insufficient to justify a recount of the ballots. That a prima facie case, such as the law requires in case of this character has not been made before your committee. From a careful examination of the authorities presented to your committee, your committee find:

First—That while the statute is liberal in its language in relation to the counting of the ballots, your committee hold that the language of the statute referred to by counsel for contestant does not apply until a right has been shown before the proper court or legislative body to justify such recount. From a careful review of the cases and law submitted to your committee by the respective parties, we quote the following statements from well recognized authorities upon this question.

"An application or petition for a recount of the ballots cast at an election will not be granted unless some specific mistake or fraud is pointed out. Such recount will not be ordered upon a general allegation of errors in a count of all and giving particulars as to none."

"A general allegation of errors believed to exist is not enough to authorize a testing of election returns by the result of the recount."

"A prima facie case must be made to show that where there is fraudulent voting in an election contest at least probabilities that sufficient false votes were cast to change the result."

"The ballot boxes will not be opened by the courts and a recount had of the ballots in a contest of election until it is first established by other evidence sufficient to make out a prima facie case."

"It is never permissible to scrutinize the ballots themselves in the first instance to determine whether or not there is just cause for contesting the election."

"Where a petition is drawn in general terms without naming the alleged illegal voters the contestant should specify them by name and election district, by bill of particulars or otherwise, before contestee is called upon to put in his testimony."

"Where petition does not set forth the irregularities with sufficient particularity, a bill of particulars will be ordered."

"Where a petition does not set forth the names of the alleged illegal voters and the causes of their disqualification, on motion, a rule will be granted to file a bill of particulars."

"An allegation in the answer that in addition to the illegal votes named therein, ten illegal votes were counted for the contestant for the office is subject to exception for indefiniteness."

"It is a clear violation of the right of the secret ballot to allow a contestant of an election on mere suspicion to have the ballots exposed and counted to enable him to find objections upon which to make a tangible charge."

Your committee have examined the authorities cited by counsel for contestant and hold that they do not in their judgment sustain the position of contestant. There is a material difference in the cases cited from the one being considered. In each of the cases cited the contestant set out the illegal voting with much greater exactness than contestant herein has done and in each case specific statements of voting by precinct is stated and such cases are easily reconciled with the views taken by your committee and are not in conflict with the authorities cited by contestee.

Your committee find from the petition and the law submitted by the respective parties that said petition is insufficient and the contestant having been given opportunity to file a bill of particulars and declining to do so, your committee conclude that said contestant does not desire to present anything more than the petition to your committee for their consideration. Your committee, therefore recommend, for the reasons above stated, which your committee believe are well founded in fact and in law, that the petition of the contestant is dismissed.

Pending consideration Mr. Donahue offered the following minority report as a substitute for the report offered by Mr. Reynolds and moved its adoption:

The undersigned members of your committee, chosen in the matter of the contested election case of Adlai E. Stevenson vs. Charles S. Deneen, respectfully submit the following report:

Pursuant to call a meeting was held on February 24, 1909. The contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, was represented by Ross C. Hall and George A. Cooke and the contestee, Charles S. Deneen, was represented by Orville F. Berry.

Counsel for contestee asked that the contestant be ruled to file a bill of particulars, whereupon counsel for contestant waived all errors alleged in the petition except the allegation of a miscount of the ballots and elected to stand on such petition as presenting a prima facie case in that particular, at the same time declining to file a bill of particulars and asked that the county clerks of the several counties of Illinois be subpoenaed to produce the ballot boxes containing the ballots voted for Governor at the last general election and that the ballots so voted be recounted under the direction and supervision of the committee.

Your committee further reports that the contestant by his counsel at the hearing aforesaid produced a witness, the Hon. Douglas Pattison of Freeport, who it was alleged would testify that in the recent contest for the office of circuit clerk in Stephenson county, he together with the State's Attorney of said county, personally inspected and counted the ballots cast in that county at the last general election for Governor, and that 150 votes were cast for Adlai E. Stevenson and counted for Charles S. Deneen. That a majority of the committee sustained the chairman in ruling out of order a motion and request made by a member of the committee and supported by five other members that such witness be sworn and his testimony heard.

Your committee further reports that the authority of this committee was by joint resolution of the General Assembly circumscribed and limited to a consideration of the single question as to whether a prima facie showing had been or could be made.

Your committee reports that on the question of a miscount of the ballots, the petition, in the judgment of the undersigned members of the committee, states a prima facie case. That the committee by requiring a bill of particulars prescribed an impossible condition precedent to a hearing on the merits, inasmuch as the best and only evidence of a miscount are the ballots and a re-count thereof. That by deliberately refusing to take the testimony of the witness as to either the intentional or inadvertent misakes of the election judges in counting the vote of Stephenson county, which gave Charles S. Deneen 150 votes cast for his opponent and made an error of 300 in the general result, a majority of the committee thwarted any further effort at a prima facie showing by evidence alundi, and created doubt and suspicion where none was thought to exist before.

Inasmuch, therefore, as the majority of the committee for reasons best known to themselves, seemed to entertain grave doubts as to the committee's powers, if any it had, or should exercise, and in consequence and by reason thereof, the committee through the fears of this majority having relapsed into "innocuous desuetude," we recommend that the General Assembly, by appropriate joint resolution, appoint a committee with the necessary Statutory powers to hear the evidence in said contest as provided by law in such case and that such committee send for the ballots and recount the votes.

IN THE MATTER OF THE CONTEST OF ADLAI E. STEVENSON VERSUS CHARLES S. DENEEN FOR THE OFFICE OF GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF ILLINOIS.

To the General Assembly, State of Illinois:

Report of the committees appointed under House Joint Resolution No. 7, in the above entitled cause.

Your committee appointed under such resolution on February 10th, 1909, most respectfully report: That they met in pursuance to said resolution and organized said committee by the election of Representative Earl D. Reynolds, Chairman, and Senator Herman H. Breidt, Secretary. And notify the respective parties in interest that they were ready to proceed with such contest. That on Tuesday, February 16th, 1909, at four o'clock p. m. your committee met in the Senate Chamber of the Capitol Building, Springfield, Illinois, for the purpose of proceeding with such contest. That at such meeting Mr. Ross C. Hall, of Chicago, Illinois and Mr. George A. Cook, of Aledo, Illinois appeared as attorneys for the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, and Mr. Orville F. Berry of Carthage, Illinois appeared for the contestee, Charles S. Deneen.

The matter of contest coming on for hearing before your committee on the original petition signed by the contestant Adlai E. Stevenson and on a written motion filed by Charles S. Deneen, the contestee, to require the petitioner to file a bill of particulars, specifying the causes of such contest.

The respective parties through their counsel presented arguments and briefs in relation to the subject matter of such contest to your committee, and after such arguments and upon due consideration your committee determined that the original petition presented and filed by the contestant is insufficient and does not present a prima facie case as required by law, whereupon your committee upon motion entered a rule upon the contestant to file a bill of particulars before said committee within ten days from this day.

Your committee reports that although ten days have elapsed since said rule was entered by your committee the contestant Adlai E. Stevenson or any one for him has not filed with the clerk of the House or with your committee any such bill of particulars.

Therefore, your committee after due consideration of said cause find that in said original petition filed by the said Adlai E. Stevenson it is charged

First—That in a number of counties in the State of Illinois a large number of foreign born persons who were not naturalized citizens of the United States, nor of the State of Illinois, voted at said election held November 3d, 1909 for Charles S. Deneen, the contestee.

Second—It is charged in said petition that a large number of persons in several counties in said State of Illinois who were not citizens of the State of Illinois and who had no legal right to vote in said State, voted for the contestee Charles S. Deneen.

Third—That a large number of votes cast in several counties of the State of Illinois were cast for the contestant Adlai E. Stevenson and by the election officers were counted for the contestee Charles S. Deneen.

Your committee further report that at the joint session of your committee, held in the Senate Chamber February 24th, 1909, and during the proceedings of your committee, counsel for the contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson withdrew all charges and allegations in said contestant's petition referring to the class of voters above referred to in items one and two leaving only in said petition the allegations relating to votes cast for the contestant Adlai E. Stevenson and improperly counted for Charles S. Deneen, the contestee. The withdrawing of the allegations of such petition above referred to leaves the matter at issue before your committee as follows:

The petition to be passed upon by your committee alleges that the contestant was the candidate of the democratic party of the State of Illinois for the office of Governor, that the contestant was more than thirty years of age and a citizen of the United States and the State of Illinois and had been for more than five years preceding such election on November 3d, 1908; that Charles S. Deneen was the regular candidate of the republican party for such office at such election. That the contestant received 526,912 votes for such office and that Charles S. Deneen received 550,076 votes for such office as shown by the canvass of the votes by the proper officers and that later said Charles S. Deneen was duly declared by the proper election officers, elected Governor of the State of Illinois.

The principal charge in said petition to be passed upon by your committee in connection with the above facts and from which your committee are to determine whether or not a prima facie case has been made, and whether or not the ballots should be opened and counted to determine that question, is in the following language on the first page of the printed petition of contestant:

"Your petitioner further states the fact to be that said Charles S. Deneen was not duly elected as Governor of the said State of Illinois at such election but that on the contrary a plurality of the legal voters of the said State of Illinois whose votes were cast at such election, voted for your petitioner * * * and that 20,000 votes were cast at said election in said State for the petitioner which votes were counted for said Charles S. Deneen."

It is charged in said petition on same page from which the above quotation is taken that 15,000 persons of foreign birth who were not naturalized and 15,000 persons who were not residents of the State of Illinois voted at said election for Charles S. Deneen. The petitioner having upon the hearing before your committee abandoned both said charges, leaving only the charges above quoted, namely that 20,000 votes were cast at such election for the petitioner Adlai E. Stevenson and counted for Charles S. Deneen.

The above charge is the only general charge left in the petition. It is however charged in such petition that in numerous counties in this State, naming the counties, that certain votes were cast in such counties for the contestant and counted for the contestee. This is the most specific and definite allegation made in said petition by the contestant.

Your committee call attention to the fact that all voting in this State is done at such elections by precincts and not by counties and your committee believes such allegations should be by precincts and not by counties.

The contention of counsel for the contestant is that the petition is sufficient upon its face to warrant this committee in entertaining the petition, upon the grounds that under the construction of the statute and the decisions of the courts it is sufficient to establish a prima facie case and to justify the introduction of the ballots and a recount thereof. The contention of the contestee is that the petition both in its original form and as finally presented for consideration to your committee as herein above stated is wholly insufficient and does not under the most liberal construction of the statute of this State and the decisions of the courts justify this committee in sending for, opening or counting the ballots. It is further contended by the contestee that said petition is wholly insufficient to overcome the presumption of regularity as found by the election officers in the State of Illinois at such election.

And that before this committee should sustain such petition and direct the opening of the ballots it should be satisfied from the petition or other evidence introduced in support thereof that there is reasonable probability that if such ballots were opened and counted it would change the results of such election. Your committee after considering the arguments of counsel and the briefs submitted by them and a careful examination of the petition presented find, That the petition as presented to them is insufficient to justify a recount of the ballots. That a prima facie case, such as the law requires in cases of this character has not been made before your committee. From a careful examination of the authorities presented to your committee, your committee find:

First—That while the Statute is liberal in its language in relation to the counting of the ballots, your committee hold that the language of the Statute referred to by counsel for contestant does not apply until a right has been shown before the proper court or legislative body to justify such recount. From a careful review of the cases and law submitted to your committee by the respective parties we quote the following statements from well recognized authorities upon this question.

"An application or petition for a recount of the ballots cast at an election will not be granted unless some specific mistake or fraud is pointed out. Such recount will not be ordered upon a general allegation of errors in a count of all and giving particulars as to none."

"A general allegation of errors believed to exist is not enough to authorize a testing of election returns by the result of the recount."

"A prima facie case must be made to show that where there is fraudulent voting in an election contest at least probabilities that sufficient false votes were cast to change the result."

"The ballot boxes will not be opened by the courts and a recount had of the ballots in a contest of election until it is first established by other evidence sufficient to make out a prima facie case."

"It is never permissible to scrutinize the ballots themselves in the first instance to determine whether or not there is just cause for contesting the election."

"Where a petition is drawn in general terms without naming the alleged illegal voters the contestant should specify them by name and election district, by bill of particulars or otherwise, before contestee is called upon to put in his testimony."

"Where petition does not set forth the irregularities with sufficient particularity a bill of particulars will be ordered."

"Where a petition does not set forth the names of the alleged illegal voters and the causes of their disqualification, on motion a rule will be granted to file a bill of particulars."

"An allegation in the answer that in addition to the illegal votes named therein ten illegal votes were counted for the contestant for the office is subject to exception for indefiniteness."

"It is a clear violation of the right of the secret ballot to allow a contestant of an election on mere suspicion to have the ballots exposed and counted to enable him to find objections upon which to make a tangible charge."

Your committee have examined the authorities cited by counsel for contestant and hold that they do not in their judgment sustain the position of contestant. There is a material difference in the cases cited from the one being considered. In each of the cases cited the contestant set out the illegal voting with much greater exactness than contestant herein has done and in each case specific statements of voting by precinct is stated and such cases are easily reconciled with the views taken by your committee and are not in conflict with the authorities cited by contestee.

Your committee find from the petition and the law submitted by the respective parties that said petition is insufficient and the contestant having been given opportunity to file a bill of particulars, and declining to do so, your committee conclude that said contestant does not desire to present anything more than the petition to your committee for their consideration. Your committee, therefore recommend, for the reasons above stated which your committee believe are well founded in fact and in law, that the petition of the contestant is dismissed.

MINORITY REPORT.

The undersigned members of your committee chosen in the matter of the contested election case of Adlai E. Stevenson vs. Charles S. Deneen respectfully submit the following report:

Pursuant to a call a meeting was held on February 24th, 1909. The contestant, Adlai E. Stevenson, was represented by Ross C. Hall and George A. Cooke, and the contestee Charles S. Deneen was represented by Orville F. Berry.

Counsel for contestee asked that the contestant be ruled to file a bill of particulars, whereupon counsel for contestant waived all errors alleged in the petition except the allegation of a miscount of the ballots and elected to stand on such petition as presenting a prima facie case in that particular, at the same time declining to file a bill of particulars, and asked that the county clerks of the several counties of Illinois be subpoenaed to produce the ballot boxes containing the ballots voted for Governor at the last general election, and that the ballots so voted be recounted under the direction and supervision of the committee.

Your committee further reports that the contestant by his counsel at the hearing aforesaid produced a witness, the Hon. Douglas W. Pattison of Freeport, who it was alleged would testify that in the recent contest for the office of circuit clerk in Stephenson County, he together with the State's Attorney of said county, personally inspected and counted the ballots cast in that county at the last general election for Governor, and that one hundred and fifty votes were cast for Adlai E. Stevenson and counted for Charles S. Deneen. That a majority of the committees sustained the chairman in ruling out of order a motion and request made by a member of the committee and supported by five members that such witness be sworn and his testimony heard.

Your committee further reports that the authority of this committee was by joint resolution of the General Assembly circumscribed and limited to a consideration of the single question as to whether a prima facie showing had been or could be made.

Your committee reports that on the question of a miscount of the ballots the petition, in the judgment of the undersigned members of the committee, states a prima facie case. That the committee by requiring a bill of particulars imposed an impossible condition precedent to a hearing on the merits, inasmuch as the best and only evidence of a miscount are the ballots and a recount thereof. That by deliberately refusing to take the testimony of the witness as to either the intentional or inadvertent mistakes of the election judges in counting the vote of Stephenson county which gave Charles S. Deneen 150 votes cast for his opponent and made an error of 300 in the general result, a majority of the committee thwarted any further effort at a prima facie showing by evidence alundi, and created doubt and suspicion where none was thought to exist before.

Inasmuch, therefore, as the majority of the committee for reasons best known to themselves seemed to entertain grave doubts as to the committee's powers, if any it had, or should exercise, and in consequence and by reason thereof the committee through the fears of this majority having relapsed into "innocuous desuetude," we recommend that the General Assembly by appropriate joint resolution appoint a committee with the necessary statutory powers to hear the evidence in said contest as provided by law in such case, and that said committee send for the ballots and recount the votes.

JOINT RULES.

OF THE

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE OF THE FORTY-SIXTH
GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

1. When a message shall be sent from the Senate to the House of Representatives, it shall be announced at the door of the House by the Door-keeper, and shall be respectfully communicated to the Chair by the person by whom it may be sent.

2. The same ceremony shall be observed when messages shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate.

3. Messages shall be sent by such persons as a sense of propriety in each house may determine to be proper.

4. In every case of disagreement between the two houses, if either house request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, the other house shall appoint a committee to confer therewith upon the subject of their disagreement. Said committee shall meet at a convenient time to be agreed upon by their chairman, and, having conferred freely, each shall report to its respective house the result of their conference. In case of an agreement the report shall be first made, with the papers referred accompanying it, to the disagreeing house, and there acted upon; and such action shall be immediately reported by the Clerk to the other house, the papers referred accompanying the message. In case of disagreement the papers shall remain with the house which referred them. The agreeing report of a conference committee shall be made, read and signed in duplicate by all members of the committee, or by a majority of those of each house, one of the duplicates being retained by the committee of each house. Should either house disagree to the report of the committee, such house shall appoint a second committee and request a second conference, which shall be acceded to by the other house before adhering. The motion for a committee of conference, and the report of such committee, shall be in order at any time. When both houses shall have adhered to their disagreement, a bill or resolution is lost.

5. While bills are on their passage between the two houses they shall be accompanied by a message signed by the Secretary or Clerk (as the case may be) respectively.

6. After a bill has passed both houses, it shall be enrolled before it is presented to the Governor.

7. When bills are enrolled, they shall be examined by a joint committee, which shall consist of five members, two from the Senate and three from the House, to be appointed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House respectively. The clerk of the Committee on Engrossed and Enrolled Bills of the respective houses shall act as clerk of the committee whenever their services are required. Said committee shall carefully compare the enrolled bills with the engrossed bills, so passed by both houses, correct any errors which may be discovered in the enrolled bills, and make their report forthwith to their respective houses; the Secretary or Clerk having previously certified on the margin of the roll in which house it originated.

8. After examination and report, each bill shall be signed in the respective houses, first by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and then by the President of the Senate.

9. After a bill shall have been signed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, it shall be presented by said Joint Committee to the Governor for his approval. The said committee shall report the day of presentation to the Governor to each house, which time shall be carefully entered on the journals of each house.

10. All resolutions and memorials which are to be presented to the Governor shall be previously enrolled, examined, signed and presented to the Joint Committee, reported, and entry made thereof, as provided in case of bills.

11. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed one house is rejected in the other, information thereof shall be given to the house in which the same shall have passed.

12. When the consideration of any bill, memorial, or resolution, which has originated in one house shall be postponed in the other to a day so distant that it shall not be taken up again by the present session, the house in which such bill, memorial or resolution shall have originated shall be forthwith informed of such postponement.

13. When a bill, memorial or resolution which has passed one house is rejected in the other, it shall not again be introduced during the same session, except in the house so rejecting, and after three days' notice and leave of that house.

14. Each house shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

15. While the two houses are acting together upon elections, or on any other matter, the Speaker shall preside, and all questions of order shall be decided by him, subject to an appeal to both houses, as though but one body was in session. A call of members of either house may be had in joint meeting by order of the house in which the call is desired, and to constitute a quorum of the joint assembly, a majority of all the members elected to both houses shall be present and voting.

16. Motions to postpone or adjourn shall be decided by a joint vote of both houses, and yeas and nays upon such motions, if required shall be entered upon the journals of both houses.

17. Upon questions arising requiring the separate decision of either house, the Senate shall withdraw until the decision is made: Provided, that questions upon motions for a call of either house shall not come within the provisions of this rule.

18. Each house shall have the liberty of ordering the printing of bills, messages and reports without the consent of the other.

19. Whenever any message, bill, report or document shall be ordered to be printed by the Senate or House, for the use of both houses, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate or Clerk of the House (as the case may be) immediately to report the fact of the passage of such order to the other branch of the General Assembly, together with the number so ordered to be printed in case the same shall exceed 300.

Which said ordinances it is claimed are without foundation of law, unreasonable and void and

WHEREAS, Under and by virtue of said ordinances the board of health of the city of Chicago are assuming to inspect dairy herds in the State of Illinois and to condemn milk, butter and cheese that are produced from cows that have not been tested by the tuberculin test and that is manufactured and produced from milk, which has not been pasteurized and the producers of milk, butter and cheese tributary to the city of Chicago are being greatly annoyed, hindered and harrassed by agents of the board of health of the city of Chicago and the sale of their product is being injured, damaged and destroyed and,

WHEREAS, By reason of the said ordinances and the unlawful and unreasonable rules and restrictions of the board of health of the city of Chicago the price of milk in said city has increased and is being raised and threatened to be raised from six and seven cents a quart to nine cents a quart to the great injury and suffering to the people of that city and,

WHEREAS, It is a disputed question whether the tuberculin test is an accurate and efficient test to determine whether the disease of tuberculosis exists in the animal and it is a disputed question whether tuberculosis can be conveyed from the animal to the human being from milk and its products, and

WHEREAS, A bill is now pending in this Legislature providing for the enforcement of the law for the testing of dairy cows and breeding cattle by the tuberculin test and the payment by the State of the sum of seventy-five per cent of the appraised value of the cattle damages which will lead to an enormous expenditure of money by the State which may possibly be unnecessary, useless and great damage and injury to the dairy interests of the State, therefore,

Be it resolved by the House, the Senate concurring, That a joint committee of nine be appointed, six by the House and three by the Senate to investigate into the reliability and the efficiency and the necessity of adopting the tuberculin test in the State of Illinois. That they take evidence and have the power to subpoena witnesses and send for documents and papers and acquaint themselves with the laws and results accomplished in other states and that said committee collect the evidence and if said tuberculin test should be found to be an actual and efficient test of the disease of tuberculosis among domestic animals then that said committee estimate the amount that should be paid for cattle condemned both under an optional law and a mandatory law and make the report to the next session of the General Assembly and that said committee be provided with an appropriation of an adequate amount to pay clerk and stenographers' fees and hire and actual traveling expenses of the committee while engaged upon the work as herein set out.

WHEREAS, No zinc ore was imported prior to the year 1905 and during the last four years over 300,000 tons of Mexican zinc ores have been imported, which ores are produced by peon labor at one-third the cost of producing ores in the State of Illinois, and

WHEREAS, The result of said importation of foreign ores is the curtailment of development and operation of zinc mines in the State of Illinois and has resulted recently in the material reduction of wages, throwing out of employment a large number of wage earners and the closing of many zinc mines in this State, and,

WHEREAS, No tariff, up to the present time, has been asked on zinc ores, owing to the fact that no foreign ores have been imported until recently, and,

WHEREAS, For the last forty years lead ore has been subject to an adequate tariff duty, the result of which is that the State of Illinois is today one of the lead producing states in the Union, and since the cost of producing lead ore and zinc ore in the State of Illinois is the same. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives, That we favor a just and equitable import duty on all zinc ores and that we request our Senators in the Senate of the United States and our members of Congress to work and vote for such legislation as will save this important industry from destruction and produce a substantial revenue to the Government.

Mr. Scanlan offered the following resolution:

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 45.

WHEREAS, The Honorable Urbin S. Ellsworth, a member of the Thirty-seventh, Thirty-eighth and Thirty-ninth General Assemblies, from La Salle County, departed this life on the fifth day of December, A. D. 1906, and

WHEREAS, The said Honorable Urbin S. Ellsworth was an honored citizen of this State, a man thoroughly representative of that great class of our citizenship, the farmer; one who always took a prominent part in all movements for the public good, doing all in his power to protect and advance the interests of this State; a man, who, as a member of this House, was ever watchful of the welfare of the people of his district and of the State at large; one who served the people of his community in different official capacities with credit to himself, and a man whose every act, both as a public officer and as a private citizen was in behalf of the people; therefore be it

Resolved, That in the death of the Honorable Urbin S. Ellsworth, the State of Illinois has lost one whose every act and vote as a member of this House was in the interest of, and for the good, of the people of his district and the State at large; the district that he represented a faithful and hard-working representative; his wife a loving husband; his children a kind and indulgent father, and the community in which he resided an honored and distinguished citizen, and be it further

Resolved, That in respect to his memory, this preamble and resolution be entered upon the Journal of this House, and a copy thereof, suitably engrossed and signed by the Speaker and Clerk of this House, be forwarded to the family of the deceased, and that as a further mark of respect, this House do now stand adjourned.

And the resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote,

And in accordance therewith at the hour of 12:50 o'clock, p. m., the House stood adjourned.

THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1909, 10:00 O'CLOCK, A. M.

The House met pursuant to adjournment.

The Speaker in the Chair.

Prayer by the Rev. Mr. C. E. Bolin.

The Journal of yesterday was being read, when, on motion of Mr. Zinger, the further reading of the same was dispensed with, and it was ordered to stand approved.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Osgood, Assistant Secretary:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has adopted the following preamble and Joint Resolution, in the adoption of which I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives, to-wit:

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 28.

WHEREAS, The seemingly hopeless deadlock in the joint session of the General Assembly in the matter of the election of a United States Senator has demonstrated the futility of the primary election law as a medium for the expression of the will of the majority, and

WHEREAS, This republic, as a government deriving its just powers from the consent of the governed, is greatly menaced by the present pernicious system of electing United States Senator, and

WHEREAS, The unprecedented example of the Illinois Legislature in refusing to abide the advisory vote of the people at the recent primary election, has fully emphasized the pressing necessity of legislation by Congress for the correction and suppression of this monstrous evil, therefore be it

Resolved, by the Senate, the House of Representatives concurring therein. That we earnestly recommend immediate action on the part of Congress looking forward to a constitutional amendment, authorizing the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people.

Adopted March 31, 1909.

J. H. PADDOCK,
Secretary of the Senate.

The foregoing Senate Joint Resolution No. 28, was ordered to lie on the Speaker's table.

A message from the Senate by Mr. Osgood, Assistant Secretary:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has concurred with them in the adoption of the following Joint Resolution, to-wit:

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 15.

Resolved by the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein. That the following be the joint rules of the House of Representatives and Senate of the Forty-sixth General Assembly:

JOINT RULES
OF THE
HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND SENATE OF THE FORTY-SIXTH
GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

1. When a message shall be sent from the Senate to the House of Representatives, it shall be announced at the door of the House by the Door-keeper, and shall be respectfully communicated to the Chair by the person by whom it may be sent.

2. The same ceremony shall be observed when messages shall be sent from the House of Representatives to the Senate.

3. Messages shall be sent by such persons as a sense of propriety in each house may determine to be proper.

4. In every case of disagreement between the two houses, if either house request a conference, and appoint a committee for that purpose, the other house shall appoint a committee to confer therewith upon the subject of their disagreement. Said committee shall meet at a convenient time to be agreed upon by their chairmen, and, having conferred freely, each shall report to its respective house the result of their conference. In case of an agreement the report shall be first made, with the papers referred accompanying it, to the disagreeing house, and there acted upon; and such action shall be immediately reported by the Clerk to the other house, the papers referred accompanying the message. In case of disagreement the papers shall remain with the house which referred them. The agreeing report of a conference committee shall be made, read and signed in duplicate by all members of the committee, or by a majority of those of each house, one of the duplicates being retained by the committee of each house. Should either house disagree to the report of the committee, such house shall appoint a second committee and request a second conference, which shall be acceded to by the other house before adhering. The motion for a committee of conference, and the report of such committee, shall be in order at any time. When both houses shall have adhered to their disagreement, a bill or resolution is lost.

5. While bills are on their passage between the two houses they shall be accompanied by a message signed by the Secretary or Clerk (as the case may be) respectively.

6. After a bill has passed both houses, it shall be enrolled before it is presented to the Governor.

7. When bills are enrolled, they shall be examined by a joint committee, which shall consist of five members, two from the Senate and three from the House, to be appointed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House respectively. The clerk of the Committee on Engrossed and Enrolled Bills of the respective houses shall act as clerk of the committee when their services are required. Said committee shall carefully compare the enrolled bills with the engrossed bills, so passed by both houses, correct any errors which may be discovered in the enrolled bills, and make their report forthwith to their respective houses; the Secretary or Clerk having previously certified on the margin of the roll in which house it originated.

8. After examination and report, each bill shall be signed in the respective houses, first by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and then by the President of the Senate.

9. After a bill shall have been signed by the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives, it shall be presented by said Joint Committee to the Governor for his approval. The said committee shall report the day of presentation to the Governor of each house, which time shall be carefully entered on the journals of each house.

10. All resolutions and memorials which are to be presented to the Governor shall be previously enrolled, examined, signed and presented to the Joint Committee, reported, and entry made thereof, as provided in case of bills.

11. When a bill or resolution which shall have passed one house is rejected in the other, information thereof shall be given to the house in which the same shall have passed.

12. When the consideration of any bill, memorial, or resolution, which has originated in one house shall be postponed in the other to a day so distant that it shall not be taken up again by the present session, the house in which such bill, memorial or resolution shall have originated shall be forthwith informed of such postponement.

13. When a bill, memorial or resolution which has passed one house is rejected in the other, it shall not again be introduced during the same session, except in the house so rejecting, and after three days' notice and leave of that house.

14. Each house shall transmit to the other all papers on which any bill or resolution shall be founded.

15. While the two houses are acting together upon elections, or on any other matter, the Speaker shall preside, and all questions of order shall be decided by him, subject to an appeal to both houses, as though but one body was in session. A call of members of either house may be had in joint meeting by order of the house in which the call is desired, and to constitute a quorum of the joint assembly, a majority of all the members elected to both houses shall be present and voting.

16. Motions to postpone or adjourn shall be decided by a joint vote of both houses, and yeas and nays upon such motions, if required shall be entered upon the journals of both houses.

17. Upon questions arising requiring the separate decision of either house, the Senate shall withdraw until the decision is made: Provided, that questions upon motions for a call of either house shall not come within the provisions of this rule.

18. Each house shall have the liberty of ordering the printing of bills, messages and reports without the consent of the other.

19. Whenever any message, bill, report or document shall be ordered to be printed by the Senate or House, for the use of both houses, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate or Clerk of the House (as the case may be) immediately to report the fact of the passage of such order to the other branch of the General Assembly, together with the number so ordered to be printed in case the same shall exceed 300.

Adopted by the House March 25, 1909.

Together with the following amendment thereto.

Strike out rule 6 and insert the following in lieu thereof:

RULE 6.

Bills may be engrossed in long hand, type writing or printing, as the respective committees on Enrolled and Engrossed Bills of the Senate and House of Representatives, may from time to time, or in particular cases, decide. After a bill has passed both houses, it shall be enrolled before it is presented to the Governor.

In the adoption of which amendment I am instructed to ask the concurrence of the House of Representatives.

I am also instructed to inform the House of Representatives that the President of the Senate has appointed as members of the Joint Committee on Enrolled and Engrossed Bills on the part of the Senate, Senators Billings and Gibson.

A message from the Governor, by James Whittaker, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the House the following:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, April 7, 1909.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives: I transmit herewith to your Honorable Body the report of the Industrial Commission, appointed by me under authority of Senate Joint Resolution No. 19, adopted by the Forty-fifth General Assembly.

The commission has investigated the subjects of—

1. The guarding of hazardous and dangerous machinery and places of employment; and
2. The maintenance of proper and sufficient sanitary and ventilation systems in places of employment.

The report of the commission shows that the suggestions offered therein for the protection of hazardous and dangerous machinery and for the improvement of sanitation and ventilation in shops and manufacturing establishments are of the most conservative character and have in a large measure been already put to practical test by many of the progressive manufacturers of the State; that the installation of the life and health-saving devices recommended will entail but little additional outlay compared with the actual expenditures now borne by employers as a result of accident; and that the adoption of some such measures as those suggested by the commission is necessary to the life and health of employes.

Accompany the report of the commission is the draft of a bill entitled, "An Act to provide for the health, safety and comfort of employes in factories, mercantile establishments, mills and workshops in this State."

The attention of the General Assembly has been heretofore directed to the necessity for legislation of the character provided in the accompanying bill, and its importance has already been recognized by your Honorable Body in the creation of the commission on occupational diseases, which is now investigating that important subject.

I therefore urge that the present report and bill be given your early consideration with a view to the enactment of the needed legislation during the present session of the General Assembly.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES S. DENEEN,

Governor.

WHEREAS, The City Council of the City of Chicago, in the month of July, A. D. 1908, passed three separate ordinances which then provided and are in force as follows, viz.:

ORDINANCES REQUIRING TUBERCULIN TEST OF COWS.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Chicago:

MILK.

SECTION 1. No milk, cream, buttermilk, or ice cream shall be sold, offered for sale, exposed for sale or kept with the intention of selling within the city of Chicago after January 1, A. D. 1909, unless such milk or cream contained in buttermilk and ice cream, be obtained from cows that have given a satisfactory negative tuberculin test within one year. The cows having been satisfactorily tested shall be marked "tuberculin tested" and shall be numbered and a certificate shall be filed with the division of milk inspection of the department of health of the city of Chicago upon forms furnished by the commissioner of health, giving the number, a brief description of the animal, the date of taking said test, and the name of the owner. Said certificate shall be signed by the person making such test, provided, however, that from January 1, 1909, for a period of five years, to-wit: until January 1, 1914 milk or cream or buttermilk and ice cream made from milk or cream, obtained from the cows not tuberculin tested or not free from tuberculosis, may be sold within the city of Chicago if the milk or cream from said cows is pasteurized according to the rules and regulations of the department of health of the city of Chicago.

SEC. 2. Any milk, cream, buttermilk or ice cream offered for sale, exposed for sale or kept with the intention of selling within the city of Chicago shall be found within the city in violation of section 1, shall be forthwith seized, condemned and destroyed by the milk and food inspectors or other duly authorized agents, or employes of the department of health of the city of Chicago.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Chicago:

SEC. 1. No butter shall be sold or offered for sale or kept with the intention of selling in the city of Chicago after January 1st, 1909, unless such butter be made from milk or cream obtained from cows that have given a satisfactory negative tuberculin test within one year; provided, however, that from January 1, 1909, for a period of five years, to-wit: January 1st, 1914, butter made of milk obtained from cows not tuberculin tested or not free from tuberculosis may be sold in the city of Chicago if the milk or cream from which such butter was made, was pasteurized according to the rules and regulations of the department of health of the city of Chicago.

SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful to sell any butter in the city of Chicago, unless there be stamped on the package in plainly legible letters of not less than one-eighth inch type: "Made of milk (or cream) from cows free from tuberculosis as shown in the 'tuberculin test' or made from milk (or cream) pasteurized according to the rules and regulations of the department of health of the city of Chicago."

SEC. 3. Any butter offered for sale, exposed for sale or kept with the intention of selling in the city of Chicago, which shall be found within the city in violation of this ordinance, shall be forthwith seized, condemned and destroyed, by the milk and food inspectors of other duly authorized agents or the department of health of the city of Chicago.

SEC. 4. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after January 1, 1909.

CHEESE.

Be it ordained by the city council of the city of Chicago:

SECTION 1. No domestic cheese shall be sold or offered for sale or kept with the intention of selling in the city of Chicago after January 1, 1909, unless such cheese be made from milk or cream obtained from cows that have given a satisfactory negative tuberculin test within one year; provided, however, that from January 1, 1909, for a period of five years, to-wit: until January 1, 1914, domestic cheese made of milk obtained from cows not tuberculin tested or not free from tuberculosis, may be sold in the city of Chicago if the milk or cream from which such cheese was made, was pasteurized, according to the rules and regulations of the department of health of the city of Chicago.

SEC. 2. It shall be unlawful to sell any such cheese in the city of Chicago unless there be stamped on the package in plainly legible letters of not less than one-eighth inch type, "Made of milk (or cream) from cows free from tuberculosis as shown by tuberculin test," or "Made from milk (or cream) pasteurized according to the rules and regulations of the department of health of the city of Chicago."

SEC. 3. Any cheese offered for sale, exposed for sale, or kept with the intention of selling in the city of Chicago, which shall be found within the city in violation of this ordinance, shall be forthwith seized, condemned and destroyed by the milk and food inspectors or other duly authorized agents or employés of the department of health of the city of Chicago.

SEC. 4. This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after January 1, 1909, which said ordinances it is claimed are without foundation of law, unreasonable and void; and

WHEREAS, Under and by virtue of said ordinances, the board of health of the city of Chicago are assuming to inspect dairy herds in the State of Illinois and to condemn milk, butter and cheese that are produced from cows that have not been tested by the tuberculin test and that is manufactured and produced from milk which has not been pasteurized, and the producers of milk, butter and cheese tributary to the city of Chicago are being greatly annoyed, hindered and harrassed by agents of the board of health of the city of Chicago, and the sale of their product is being injured, damaged and destroyed; and

WHEREAS, By reason of the said ordinances and the unlawful and unreasonable rules and restrictions of the board of health of the city of Chicago, the price of milk in said city has increased and is being raised and threatened to be raised from six and seven cents a quart to nine cents a quart, to the great injury and suffering to the people of that city; and

WHEREAS, It is a disputed question whether the tuberculin test is an accurate and efficient test to determine whether the disease of tuberculosis exists in the animal, and it is a disputed question whether tuberculosis can be conveyed from the animal to the human being from milk and its products; and

WHEREAS, It is disputed and denied that the disease of tuberculosis exists to any appreciable extent among the dairy herds and breeding animals of the State, and such dispute leads to the damage and loss of values of such dairy herds and breeding animals by reason of such dispute and contention, and loss and injury to the owner of such dairy herds and sale of their products, by reason of the said city ordinances and the rules and regulations and inspections of the department of the board of health of the city of Chicago; and

WHEREAS, It is plain that the pasteurizing of milk destroys its value for the manufacturer of butter and cheese and renders it impossible to manufacture any reasonable quality of butter or cheese from such milk and tends rather to increase the bacteria germs naturally in milk, where it is not used immediately, and otherwise injures and destroys the strength and food qualities in the milk; and

WHEREAS, A bill is now pending in this Legislature providing for the enforcement of the law for the testing of dairy cows and breeding cattle by the tuberculin test, and the payment by the State of the sum of 75 per cent of the appraised value of the cattle damaged, which will lead to an enormous expenditure of money by the State, which may possibly be unnecessary, useless and of great damage and injury to the dairy interests of the State:

Therefore, be it resolved by the House, the Senate concurring: That a joint committee of nine be appointed, six by the Speaker of the House and three by the President of the Senate, to investigate into the reliability and the efficiency and the necessity of adopting the tuberculin test in the State of Illinois, and that said committee investigate and determine the question as to whether or not the disease germ passes from an animal afflicted with tuberculosis, through the milk, to a human being, and the effect of pasteurizing milk as such food product is pasteurized, bottled up, shipped and used in the city of Chicago, taken from the dairy districts at a distance from said city.

That they take evidence and have the power to subpoena witnesses and send for documents and papers and acquaint themselves with the laws and results accomplished in other states, and that said committee collect the evidence and opinions of expert bacteriologists upon said question, and if said tuberculin test should be found to be an actual and efficient test of the disease or tuberculosis among domestic animals, then that said committee estimate the amount that should be paid for cattle condemned, both under an optional law, mandatory law, and make their report to the next session of the General Assembly; and that said committee be provided with an appropriation of an adequate amount to pay clerk and stenographer's fees and hire and actual traveling expenses of the committee while engaged upon the work as herein set out.

And recommended that the original House Joint Resolution No. 16 lie upon the table and that the substitute do pass.

The report of the committee was concurred in and the original House Resolution No. 16 was ordered to lie on the table and the substitute House Joint Resolution No. 20 was adopted.

Ordered that the Clerk inform the Senate thereof and ask their concurrence therein.

A message from the Governor, by James Whittaker, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the House of Representatives the following:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, April 14, 1909.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith to your Honorable Body the report of the National Conservation Commission for Illinois, appointed by me to coöperate with the Federal National Conservation Commission in the conservation of the natural resources of this State.

This commission owes its origin to the suggestion of President Roosevelt, that the work of the various State agencies engaged in conserving our natural resources would be greatly facilitated by coöperation. In consonance with this suggestion and with the purpose of the commission to coöperate with the national government, the following gentlemen were appointed members of the Illinois commission:

Messrs. Isham Randolph, of the Internal Improvement Commission; C. G. Hopkins, of the Agricultural Experiment Station; LaFayette Funk, of the State Highway Commission; H. F. Bain, of the State Geological Survey; Frank M. Hall, of the Illinois Farmers' Institute; G. W. Traer, of the Illinois Coal Operators' Association; John H. Walker, of the United Mine Workers; T. C. Chamberlin, of the Illinois Academy of Science; E. T. Perkins, of the United States Reclamation Service; William Hill, of the University of Chicago; Walter L. Fisher, of the Conservation League, and S. A. Forbes, of the State Natural History Survey.

Through the coöperation of these gentlemen as members of the National Conservation Commission of Illinois, a large mass of material bearing upon the important subject with which the commission deals, has been for the first time gathered and coördinated and is presented in such a manner as to afford a general view of the State's resources, of the relations subsisting between their several parts and of the best means of preserving and developing them as a whole, in view of the important bearing of their maintenance upon the future prosperity of our agricultural, mining, manufacturing and other industrial pursuits.

Before the appointment of this commission, numerous instances of coöperation between State, and between State and national, bureaus had arisen from the necessity or manifest advantage of such coöperation. Thus, the State Board of Health and the State Water Survey have for some time past united in the maintenance of a common laboratory for the study of sanitary problems; the State Waterways Reclamation Committee has united with representatives from the Internal Improvement Commission, the State Geological Survey, and the United States Department of Agriculture, in the study of stream improvement in this State. It is the aim of the present commission to extend this coöperation into all branches of conservation work and to transform it from a mere working arrangement entered into voluntarily by certain departments for their mutual advantage, to a compulsory coöperation with duties imposed by law.

For this purpose it is recommended that provision be made for a permanent commission, consisting, in part, of representatives of the State bureaus concerned, and, in part, of persons having no such connection; to be charged with the duty of investigating subjects necessary to the proper conservation and utilization of the natural resources of the State, the better development and administration of the scientific and technical work of the State, and the better correlation of the work of the various State scientific and technical bureaus.

The report of the National Conservation Commission for Illinois furnishes abundant evidence of the advantages which would follow the creation of a permanent commission. The condensed account of the work accomplished by the present commission is a record of which the State and its citizens may well be proud and I trust that the recommendations of the individual commissions and boards will receive your earnest attention and such support as they merit and the exigencies of the public revenue will allow.

The report, though condensed, is too long for general review, but I would call the attention of your Honorable Body to certain specific conditions brought out in the report which seem to constitute a need for emergency action.

In particular, attention is invited to the need of more complete plans for the conservation and protection of public water supplies. Hitherto attention has been directed mainly to protecting public water supplies from contamination. Much remains to be done in this direction. The Lake Michigan Water Commission, organized by executive action to promote coöperative investigation by the various states concerned, is without any funds and in view of the large and vital interests involved, a small appropriation may well be made to cover our part of this work. The facilities of the Water Survey and of the Board of Health should be increased so that they may adequately study the demands of the future as well as of the present. It is also, probably, none too soon to take into account the quantity of water which will be needed for sanitary and industrial purposes as our population increases. Illinois is in the humid belt and has ample rainfall. Owing, however, to the natural irregularities of rainfall and to the perfection of the drainage, in certain parts of the State there are frequent periods of flood followed by severe though infrequent droughts. There was such a period of drought in southern Illinois in 1908 and at many points the industrial activities of the region were seriously disarranged. Factories, mines, lighting plants, and even street car systems were shut down for want of water. The railways were obliged to haul it long distances and even then were unable to maintain full service. As the population of this area becomes more dense and manufacturing increases, these recurring water famines will be more and more serious in their effects and adequate means should be devised for meeting the situation.

In several of the eastern states, provision has been made for public water supply commissions having authority to adjust the diversion and distribution of the water of streams so as to protect the public interest. It was found in one case that when such a commission was established, most of the valuable water supplies of a large part of the State had already passed into the control of a private corporation which has as a result, at least potentially, one of the most valuable of monopolies. It would be well to take such steps as may be necessary to protect the public interest in this particular throughout the State.

Provision should also be made for a thoroughly sanitary milk supply for cities and towns, for each of which there is great reason to believe that many lives, especially of babies and children, are being annually sacrificed.

Suitable provision should be made for the study of dangerous occupations. The large and increasing use of machinery in transportation and manufacturing, demands attention and funds should be available for making any investigations necessary.

There should be prompt completion of a forestry survey of the State and the early formulation of a correct and practical policy of protection, management and maintenance for lack of which our remaining sources of supply for forest products seems rapidly disappearing.

There is also need for the completion of an economic survey of the organic life of the Illinois river and its tributary waters. This is indispensable to a clear knowledge of the kind and amount of its present and possible values, without which avoidable but irreparable damage to our fisheries, is likely to be done by the various developmental operations in progress or impending in connection with that stream.

The severely despressed condition of the coal industry, the large losses in mining and using coal and the numerous and fatal accidents occurring in our mines, warrant some provision for special study.

The report of the commission also devotes attention to the question of waterway development in its relation to a general program for the conservation of the State's natural resources. This is most important. The possible development of water power as an incident to waterway construction has furnished one of the chief incentives to the immediate prosecution of the work of extending the deep waterway from Lockport to Utica. Other benefits, such as drainage and land reclamation, which are naturally incidental to waterway construction, can undoubtedly be secured by a proper and timely investigation and consideration of conservation problems. This is one of the principal advantages which will flow from the coöperation, through the Conservation Commission, of the various state agencies which are now pursuing special lines of conservation work.

The entrance by the State upon so great an undertaking as the building of a deep waterway and the expenditure of $20,000,000 in the enterprise has naturally turned the attention of the State to related subjects and has enforced the demand for a general taking of stock of all the forms of natural advantages which our State possesses in such abundance. Many branches of this work are in a fair state of advancement under the direction of the State Geological Survey, the Internal Improvement Commission, the Agricultural Experiment Station, the State Highway Commission and other agencies. What is needed is the correlation of the work already under way and the prosecution of divisions of the work of conservation which have been heretofore neglected. This can be best accomplished through such an agency as the National Conservation Commission for Illinois. The data collected by this commission will cover the entire field of our natural resources and its reports will present to the General Assembly a general view of their extent and relations, with suggestions for their preservation and development which can be best drawn only from a study of their conservation as a whole. In my judgment, this important work should be continued and the commission made a permanent organization. I therefore urge upon the General Assembly the careful consideration of the suggestions and recommendations of the commission.

Respectfully submitted,

A message from the Governor, by James Whittaker, Secretary to the Governor:

Mr. Speaker—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the House of Representatives, the following:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

SPRINGFIELD, April 27, 1909.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives:

I transmit herewith to your Honorable Body the report of the Commission on Occupational Diseases appointed by me under the authority of a joint resolution, adopted by the General Assembly in March, 1907.

The report deals with many branches of industry in which conditions deleterious to the health of the workers have been found to prevail and offers suggestions for the improvement of such conditions.

It appears from the report of the commission that its work is far from complete and an estimate of the appropriations necessary to continue this work for the next two years is appended to the report. The members of the commission, who serve without compensation, freely tender their services to the State in the further prosecution of their investigations.

The work of the commission is of great importance to employes and employers alike in many of our most extensive industries and in my opinion should be continued.

I therefor solicit for the recommendations of the report and the estimates of appropriations necessary for the continuance of the work, your earnest consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES S. DENEEN,

Governor.

A message from the Governor by James Whittaker, Secretary to the Governor:

STATE OF ILLINOIS, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,

SPRINGFIELD, April 28, 1909.

Mr. Speaker—I am directed by the Governor to lay before the House of Representatives the following communication:

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives:

In compliance with Senate Joint Resolution No. 24, adopted by the Senate on March 17, last, authorizing the appointment of a commission to investigate and report to the General Assembly its conclusions as to the advisability of enacting a law regulating fire insurance rates, the following gentlemen were appointed members of said commission: Mr. Edson W. Lyman, George C. Hill, Stephen D. Sexton and E. A. Hall. I am today in receipt from said commission of a communication, a copy of which is attached hereto and transmitted for the consideration of your Honorable Body.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES S. DENEEN,

Governor.

SPRINGFIELD, April 27, 1909.

Hon. Charles S. Deneen, Governor, Springfield, Illinois:

DEAR SIR—Your commission appointed pursuant to Senate Joint Resolution No. 24, for the purpose of considering the subject matter of said resolution and reporting to the General Assembly by May 1, 1909, being duly organized and ready to begin the work necessary to obtain the information required by said resolution, after due consideration of the magnitude of the work required of this commission, most respectfully suggest to your Excellency that the Assembly be requested to extend the time for making said report sufficient to enable the commission to make a thorough investigation of the whole subject involved.

The commission is willing to enter into the labor necessary believing that the people should be advised along the lines indicated in the resolution, but are sure that it is impossible to make an intelligent investigation and report, or one that would be of any value to the people of the State in the limited time named, remembering as we must, that the subject involves the enormous sum of twenty millions of dollars in premiums paid out in the State of Illinois annually.

We note that there are bills pending before the General Assembly affecting the subject matter contained in the resolution, and we would respectfully suggest that the General Assembly will hold in abeyance any measures of this character until after the report of this commission is submitted.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) EDSON W. LYMAN, Chairman,
GEORGE C. HILL, Secretary.
STEPHEN D. SEXTON,
E. A. HALL.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 23.

WHEREAS, The Baptist people and others of the State of Illinois propose to erect a monument at the grave of the late Reverend James Lemen, Sr., near Waterloo, Monroe county, Illinois, to honor his memory as a Revolutionary soldier and the friend and co-worker with Thomas Jefferson in organizing the peaceful forces that dedicated the great northwestern territory to freedom, by the anti-slavery clause in the ordinance of 1787, and which later gave Illinois a free State Constitution, and who was an Indian fighter in Illinois in defense of our early homes, and later became a founder of the Baptist denomination in Illinois; and,

WHEREAS, The late Judge Silas Bryan, of saintly memory and greatly beloved by our people, was the first person to suggest the erection of a monument to the honor of Reverend James Lemen nearly sixty years ago, at which time it was thought that the monument would at once be erected, and it was arranged that the Legislature should be requested to invite Senator Stephen A. Douglas to deliver an address at the dedication of the monument upon the joint labors of Thomas Jefferson and James Lemen, it being deemed appropriate that the recognized leader of Jefferson's party should thus honor his memory, while at the same time the State would recognize the great services of both Jefferson and Lemen; and

WHEREAS, It was the purpose of the late Abraham Lincoln, on account of his profound interest in, and respect for, the memory and deeds of the late James Lemen and his ardent friendship for his sons, to have attended the ceremonies of unveiling and dedication of the monument; in consequence of which it is believed that his distinguished son, Robert T. Lincoln, will feel a deep interest in an event which so enlisted his father's warmest approval; therefore,

Resolved, by the House, the Senate concurring: That the Honorable William J. Bryan, of Lincoln, Nebraska, and the Honorable Robert T. Lincoln, of Chicago, Illinois, be invited and earnestly requested to attend the meeting at New Design, near Waterloo, on September 16th next, for the purpose of participating in the exercises of unveiling and dedication of the proposed monument.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION No. 23.

WHEREAS, The Baptist people and others of the State of Illinois propose to erect a monument at the grave of the late Reverend James Lemen, Sr., near Waterloo, Monroe county, Illinois, to honor his memory as a Revolutionary soldier and the friend and co-worker with Thomas Jefferson in organizing the peaceful forces that dedicated the great northwestern territory of freedom, by the anti-slavery clause in the ordinance of 1787, and which later gave Illinois a free State Constitution, and who was an Indian fighter in Illinois in defense of our early homes, and later became a founder of the Baptist denomination in Illinois; and

WHEREAS, The late Judge Silas Bryan, of saintly memory and greatly beloved by our people, was the first person to suggest the erection of a monument to the honor of Reverend James Lemen nearly sixty years ago, at which time it was thought that the monument would at once be erected, and it was arranged that the Legislature should be requested to invite Senator Stephen A. Douglas to deliver an address at the dedication of the monument upon the joint labors of Thomas Jefferson and James Lemen, it being deemed appropriate that the recognized leader of Jefferson's party should thus honor his memory, while at the same time the State would recognize the great services of both Jefferson and Lemen; and

WHEREAS, It was the purpose of the late Abraham Lincoln, on account of his profound interest in, and respect for, the memory and deeds of the late James Lemen and his ardent friendship for his sons, to have attended the ceremonies of unveiling and dedication of the monument; in consequence of which it is believed that his distinguished son, Robert T. Lincoln, will feel a deep interest in an event which so enlisted his father's warmest approval; therefore
